Life Like Cast Of Head Is To Be Made As Identification Aid

NO CLUES AS YET OFFICIALS REPORT

Cleveland Detectives Join In Efforts To Solve Local Murder Mystery

As a means of aiding in the identification of the West Pittsburg swamp victim, District Attorney John G. Lamoree and Coroner Charles P. Byers have directed what is known as a "Moulage" cast, to be made of the head. This is a plastic, life-like replica.

The head was found by George McCart, a car inspector, Thursday before noon, and is believed to belong to the torso found by three boys one week ago this afternoon. The manner in which the head was severed from the body caused this belief.

Balkan Treaties Arm Of Turkey

Turkey To Move Quickly To Consolidate Diplomatic Advantages

ALLIES-TURKISH TREATY IS VITAL

By JAMES E. BROWN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

ANKARA, Turkey, Oct. 20.—With the momentous Anglo-French-British mutual aid pact now signed and on the records, Turkey was expected today to move quickly to consolidate her diplomatic advantages.

Seek Balkan Treaties

Informed quarters said the Ankara regime probably would move for swift conclusion of a series of Balkan treaties which will include Bulgaria and which may serve as a further check to Soviet and German aspirations in southeastern Europe.

Meanwhile, Turkish Foreign Minister Sukru Saracoglu, en route to Ankara from Moscow, where his negotiations for a Russo-Turkish pact ended in no agreement, arrived at Istanbul aboard a Soviet warship.

He will proceed to Ankara tonight to meet French General Maxime Weygand and Major General Archibald P. Wavell, commander of the British middle eastern forces, who are remaining in Ankara for conferences with Turkish military leaders

Soviet And Turkey Reaffirm Friendship

(International News Service)

MOSCOW, Oct. 20—Only a few hours after the Anglo-French-Turkish mutual assistance pact was signed, Soviet Russia and Turkey today reaffirmed their mutual friendship.

Soviet Premier-Foreign Commissar V. M. Molotov and Turkish Foreign Minister Sukru Saracoglu, who spent more than three weeks in Moscow in apparently fruitless negotiations with the Soviet, exchanged telegrams reiterating Russian-Turkish goodwill.

In his message to Molotov, Saracoglu noted the "cordiality and mutual confidence characterizing relations between Turkey and Russia."

To this Molotov replied:

"I, too, am happy to note the exchange of views which took place in Moscow again reaffirmed the friendly relations existing between the Soviet Union and Turkey."

President Says U.S. Territorial Zone Indefinite

U. S. Patrol Will Extend As Far Out To Sea As U. S. Safety Demands

NO DEFINITE NUMBER OF MILES DESIGNATED

Destinction Made Between Submarines And Belligerent Surface Vessels

By GEORGE DURNO
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Oct. 20.—America's territorial waters may run three, twenty or a thousand miles out to sea, President Roosevelt said today in defining his executive order barring belligerent submarines from United States ports.

As he entered his Hyde Park home for the week-end, the president placed a plain differential between submarines and belligerent surface vessels.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Secretary of State Hull said in Washington yesterday that the territorial waters defined in the president's proclamation extended only three miles from the coast lines. Hull referred to several court decisions limiting these waters to three miles)

No Comparison

Any effort to compare merchantmen to submarines, said the president, was like comparing apples to pears.

The two types of craft definitely come into two district categories, Mr. Roosevelt declared. The neutrality act so defines them.

Any submarine that comes into American waters, asserted the president, should rise to the surface and show its periscope.

Territorial limits are as far out to sea as national safety requires, he said.

The president recalled the old 3-mile limit under international law and also the lengths to which this country went during the prohibition era to stop whiskey landings.

Reporters asked the executive about his distinction between submarines and merchant vessels, inquiring whether the law applied to "armed" merchant ships. The presi-

Western Front Activity Slight French Report

PARIS ON ALERT FOR AIR RAIDS

French Believe German Losses In This Week's Engagements Were Heavy

By KENNETH T. DOWNS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PARIS, Oct. 20.—Increasing reconnaissance activity on the western front, particularly east of the Moselle river, was reported from the battle zone today.

At some points, it was stated, the Germans have been sending out patrols amounting to as much as a full company of men, and they have been met with sharp bursts from French artillery batteries.

That the war for the present has bogged down in mud to little more than these patrol activities was made clear by this morning official war office communique, No. 93, which stated:

Rainy Weather

"All was quiet during the night. The weather was rainy. There was patrol activity on both sides."

Meanwhile, evidently in the belief that the Germans may launch a sudden aerial attack against Paris, the French capital for the first time since the war began went under a complete blackout.

Not even the dimmest street lamps, which previously had cast an unearthly, subdued glow on the streets, were lighted and the entire city was shrouded in pitch darkness.

There were no air raid alarms, however.

The Germans were reported trying to reconnoiter the terrain near Appach and Perl, where the French artillery fire was reported heaviest.

Similarly, French patrols have established contact with the Germans' new advance positions, seeking prisoners in order to ascertain the nature of the German regiment being brought to the front and those massing behind the lines for another anticipated attack.

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Oct. 20.—A handsome St. James version of the Bible and a wide area of drought-stricken Christmas trees lured President Roosevelt back to Hyde Park today for a quiet week-end.

Mr. Roosevelt motored to his family home immediately after detraining from the presidential special which arrived here from the capital this morning.

Air Raid Warnings Over British Isles

Aircraft Seen But No Reports Are Made Of Bombs Being Dropped

(International News Service)

LONDON, Oct. 20.—Appearance of unidentified aircraft, presumably German over the Firth of Forth and other parts of Scotland caused the air raid sirens to sound over large areas of the British Isles today.

No raid was carried out, however. An official announcement said:

"Precautionary measures were taken when unidentified aircraft appeared over the Firth of Forth this morning.

"No bombs were reported dropped.

"The warnings were sounded about 11 a. m., and the all clear given within an hour."

In Edinburgh and elsewhere there was a mix-up in the signals.

Shortly after the first warning had been given, a faulty siren gave a premature "all clear" signal. Civilians poured into the streets, only to rush back to shelter when another general warning was sounded.

Air Raid Alarms In Scotland Again

German Planes Are Again Heard

Recurrent Alarms Are Given Followed "All Clear" Signals

PLANES ARE SEEN FLYING NORTH

(International News Service)

LONDON, Oct. 20.—German war planes winged over Scotland today as air raid warnings screeched at the Firth of Forth and other areas, sending inhabitants scurrying to shelter in anticipation of a German bombing attack.

British fighting planes immediately went up, ready for battle.

The warnings were sounded in various parts of southern and eastern Scotland.

The "all clear" signal was given in various parts of Scotland about half an hour after the first warnings were sounded.

Then a second warning was sounded, followed by an "all clear" signal 10 minutes later.

Finally a third warning was sounded, again sending inhabitants of the threatened region to cover.

The third "all clear" was sounded half an hour later.

It was confirmed officially in Edinburgh that German planes were seen overhead, flying to the north.

British anti-aircraft guns opened fire in one area. Glasgow received a "stand by" order, as did the entire Clydeside.

PRESIDENT SAYS U. S. TERRITORIAL ZONE INDEFINITE

dent said he forgot which, but he was quite definite in his endorsement of the Panama city convention that pledged 21 American republics to patrol a 300-mile neutrality belt.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The British admiralty last Friday indicated it could not fully accept the request of Pan-American nations that belligerents stay outside the extensive "safety zone" around the American continents. The admiralty said that while the belligerents, particularly the allies, might be anxious to do so "it must be for them to decide whether or not to accept restrictions which would limit their enjoyment of certain well-etstablished rights."

Go As Far As Necessary

During the rum-running period, Mr. Roosevelt frankly said a "territorial limit" was set that permitted whiskey-laden craft to lie off our shores and unload in small boats from the shore.

So far as the neutrality patrol engendered by the European war is concerned, the president again said it would go out to sea as far as necessary.

In a recent press conference the president defined American territorial limits as extending as far as American interests dictated.

Today, he renewed this administration formula, declaring that destroyers, coast guard cutters and planes in the neutrality patrol would go as far out to sea as national safety requires.

SEEK METHOD OF IDENTIFYING MAN IN MURDER CASE

link the West Pittsburg swamp killings with similar murders in Cleveland.

Cowles some time ago took a portion of the victim's vertebrae to Cleveland and, after a test at Western Reserve union medical school, said there were certain similarities between the murders at West Pittsburg and Cleveland. However, he is awaiting further information before making a definite statement.

When the cast is made, it is expected to bring out the life appearance of the victim's head. It is the first time such a move has been made here and through it identification may be made possible.

The step was decided upon following a conference between County Detective Welsh, State Policemen Brush and McCullough, Sheriff Ingham and deputies, Badger and Dean, and the two Cleveland police bureau officials, Cowles and Trunk, Coroner Charles P. Byers and District Attorney John G. Lamoree.

The head has been in the gondola since September 29 when it supposedly was sawed off. It was somewhat decomposed. One ear is small and the teeth are preserved. These, together with the hair, sandy in color, may go far toward helping an identification.

Cowles and Trunk said that 13 murders of similar nature have occurred since 1934, in Cleveland. Identification was made in only one case. The victim was a woman. She was identified through fingerprints on file with Cleveland police.

Bodies Found Near Railroad

They pointed out that all the bodies were found within 1,000 feet of the same railroad that travels through West Pittsburg, causing them to believe that the man be a train-riding pervert who possibly holds forth in box cars or hobo "jungles" where he finds victims.

Detective Peter Merylo of the Cleveland police department was expected here today to aid in the investigation. He recalled that a torso was found wrapped in Cleveland and Pittsburgh newspapers in July, 1936. Merylo believes that the pervert uses a box car for an operating room.

This was about the sixth or seventh head or torso found in the swamp during a period of 15 years.

Earl Denton, state motor police photographer, and Private Malloy of the Butler barracks, took pictures of the head yesterday at Leyde's morgue where Coroner Charles P. Byers and District Attorney Lamoree had it taken.

While the photographs were being taken, the head was placed in various positions. It was studied for possible bullet wounds. None was found. Neither could it be developed if what appeared a "line" on the top of the skull was caused by a blow. The scientific study will bring out whether or not the man was struck with a blunt instrument before his head was hacked off.

Shortly before noon today Detectives Peter Merylo and Martin Zalewski of the Cleveland police department arrived and immediately went into conference with State Motor Policemen Brush and McCullough, County Detective Paul Welsh and other authorities.

After the conference in the state motor police substation the Cleveland detectives were taken by state motor police and district attorney's detective, Paul Welsh, and Constable Walter Bannon to the place where the torso was found and also to where the head was located.

They brought here several dozen photographs of the murder victims found in Kingsbury Run, Cleveland. They were gruesome pictures. Most of them had been butchered, not once but several times. Some of the victims were headless.

When this canine sits down to meditate on the trials and tribulations of leading a dog's life he usually ends up by sitting back on his haunches, stretching out his neck and emitting long dismal howls like a lost soul in Hades. Students who went out from Westminster in those early years, have lived their lives, and passed on. Today, a new generation is preparing for the duties of life, in much the same manner as their predecessors. But they will enjoy the added advantages which has marked the progress of Westminster through the years. It is with pardonable pride that we look back over the long and successful history of this institution. Few colleges in the country can point to 85 years of unbroken existence. Senator Gillette (D) Iowa, was the doubtful member of the senate who came over to the administration supporters. He said he "regretted" that the administration would not take the arms embargo along with other restrictive amendments of its pending bill. But he added that these restrictive sections, in his opinion, made a "safer" law than the existing arm embargo provision, permitting unlimited export, on American boats, of non-military cargoes to belligerents.

These developments came as administration supporters announced confidence their bill would command "70 votes" on final passage and opposition leaders conceded agreement on suggestions for limitation of debate beginning next week.

Both sides agreed that a final vote might be reached by Saturday a week. Some quarters believed that the triangular treaty among Turkey, guardian of the vital Dardanelles, and Britain and France may prove a decisive factor in the European war.

The pact removes all possibility that Turkey might side with Germany. Also, it places Italy in a vulnerable position should she join the Reich against the allies.

Nevertheless, a protocol exempts Turkey from ever taking up arms against Soviet Russia for any reason except direct Russian aggression against Turkish soil. The pact will run 15 years.

Turkey acted with unexpected speed to give her answer to the Russo-German demands by signing the pact, which guarantees both Rumania and Greece.

By so doing, Turkey forestalled any sudden German move by allying herself, as the key power of the Balkans, with the British and French, and pledging herself to keep the Dardanelles open.

Throwing her entire weight into the delicate Mediterranean balance, Turkey also promised to support the Anglo-French guarantee to Greece and to cooperate with Great Britain and France in the event of aggression by any other Mediterranean power.

Having thus made her position clear in the event of a declaration of war by Italy, Turkey is now expected to strengthen her own position in the Balkans.

major fighting since the German offensive on Monday, the French general staff surveyed the results of the fighting and came to the conclusion that the German losses were considerably greater than at first believed.

It was understood the French tactical retreat covered a sector about 20 miles long east of the Saar, and that the French withdrew at some points as much as six miles behind their former advance posts.

Military authorities still insist, however, that the French forces are wholly within German territory, despite German assertions to the contrary.

Public Hearings In Gas Rate Boost End In Pittsburgh

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 20.—The Pennsylvania Public Utility commission today adjourned its public hearings into proposed rate increases by the Peoples Natural Gas company, serving 13 Western Pennsylvania counties.

Through an authoritative quarter it was learned that the rate increase scheduled for November 16 will be suspended for at least another 90 days.

It was explained that although the company had given a preliminary statement of the original cost of the Peoples Gas company, it had not complied with requests by the commission for a detailed report or a report on original cost for the Columbia Natural Gas company with which peoples merged in 1938. Company counsel had first offered to have the testimony ready in May, then August and now not before December, the commission spokesman declared.

DISCRIMINATING

The hired girl had been sent down to the brook to fetch a pail of water, but stood gazing at the flowing stream apparently lost in thought.

"What's she waiting for?" asked her mistress, who was watching.

"Dunno," wearily replied her husband. "Perhaps she hasn't seen a pailful she likes yet."

If you are worried by the war, people call you a pessimist; if you are cheerful, they think you are too simple to give a darn.

AMERICAN INDUSTRIES MUST COME FIRST

ALTHOUGH Secretary Hull's intention to negotiate a reciprocal trade agreement with Argentina was announced as long ago as August, the hearings just opened in Washington possess special significance because of new conditions created by the European war.

The specific barrier to such an arrangement with Argentina has now been removed. It was the system of preferences granted by that country, in the nature of import permits and exchange differentials, of which Great Britain was the chief beneficiary. The excuse was the consistent important balance of Britain in her trade with Argentina. American competitive goods were virtually excluded from that market.

Of all the South American republics, Argentina has been the coldest toward overtures of friendship by our government. The proposed agreement, therefore, has strong political implications. However, this fact should not serve as an excuse for tariff concessions that might work harm to our industries.

Western and southern congressmen are protesting against changes that in their opinion would injure such industries as cattle and wool. Under the most-favored-nation provision, many other countries would share any benefits granted to Argentina. American farmers have never been satisfied with the agreement made with Canada.

It has been stated in connection with the proposed act with Chile that concessions on farm products will be safeguarded by seasonal and other limitations. A similar policy should be followed toward Argentina. We must not overlook any opportunities of increasing our trade with South America, which has been deprived of important customers by the war. But we can not afford to put further handicaps on our own industries in the process.

DRUNKEN PEDESTRIAN ALSO A MENACE

The suggestion by the American Automobile Association that intoxicated pedestrians be prosecuted as violators of traffic laws, as a menace to motorists, and on the theory of sauce-for-goose sauce-for-gander, is not without rational justification. Drunken drivers endanger other people in cars and on foot; certainly drunken pedestrians menace not only themselves but every person in every automobile when they walk into street traffic.

In most other cities ordinances against public intoxication are seldom enforced as a general society-protection matter unless disorderly conduct is involved. Yet considering inebriated persons afoot as traffic hazards is novel but not preposterous.

ENGINES OF SQUALUS UNDAMAGED

It speaks well for the quality of machinery going into American naval ships to find that the Diesel engines of the ill-fated submarine Squalus suffered no appreciable damage in spite of more than four months' picklink in sea brine at the bottom of the Atlantic.

Brought home to the Cleveland plant which built them, the Squalus' engines were found in good condition to run with scarcely more than a wiping down. Naval standards being what they are, they will nevertheless be taken down piece by piece, minutely inspected, and reassembled.

Any such four-month pickling in ocean brine is a severe test to an engine, and it is gratifying to know that naval equipment and new "indestructible" steels are of such high quality. The Squalus suffered no great damage, and will be ready for sea again within a comparatively short time. And to sea it will go, with a crew which, in the naval tradition, will probably never have an uneasy moment at the thought of the tragedy their ship has known.

ANOTHER ANGLE TO RUSSIAN SITUATION

Some commentators are currently presenting a picture of all of Europe and Asia eating out of Joe Stalin's hand.

In this view Stalin has Germany hog-tied. Japan was glad to enter into non-aggression compact with the bear. The Baltic countries are being gobbled up along with the Balkans. Turkey kow-towed with a Dardanelles understanding favorable to Russia. In this situation, according to the theory, Stalin will be in position to destroy Germany after the deadlock on the western front has persisted for a while, drive Japan out of China and take on England and France at his leisure.

Before folks swallow that, however, they will want more convincing evidence that Russia can whip anybody. Stalin is sweeping up some diplomatic wreckage caused by fear in Europe. When Russia is called upon to fight, as it must be in defense of its present and projected gains, the world will be able to judge Russia's strength, and not until then.

And Russia's military history does not invest that land with the stature of a world conqueror.

GADSBYS—NOW AND THEN

Numerous are the examples of literary tours de force, particularly among poets with a yen for onomatopoeia or a propensity for fantastic punning—remember your Thomas Hood? But an exploit without a parallel has just reached its consummation on the emergence from the press on the very day its author died of a novel by Ernest Vincent Wright of 50,100 words entiled "Gadsby," whose chief bid for fame is that it does not anywhere contain the letter "e." It appears that Mr. Wright just tied down the "e" bar on his typewriter and then let imagination riot.

One is permitted to wonder whether the novelist was not inclined at times to tear his hair, if any, when forced to find substitutes for words like "love," "beauty," "marriage," "peace," "hope," "resignation," "memory" and a long list that wells up whenever composition is the thing at hand. And how did he escape the article "the", and the past tenses and perfect participles in "ed?" Mr. Wright called his novel "Gadsby." Rudyard Kipling did an unforgettable piece in "The Story of the Gadsbys"—two of them, with more to come—and did it in one-tenth the number of words.

It remains for literary posterity to determine whether it is the memory of Kipling or of Wright that will be evoked when the name of "Gadsby" comes to mind. Mr. Wright died at 67. He was a naval musician in the World War. Conflict had no terrors for him, but who knows what might have been the effect of the book reviews he escaped?

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

HELPS TO TEACH DESTRUCTIVE TRAIT

The child from one to two is more interested in destroying than in building. He easily can cause something to happen when he tears things apart or breaks them. To do so gives him a sense of power.

Parents, notably fathers, are inclined to build up things for the baby to knock down. Observing the joy the child gets in doing so, the parent is tempted to go on at this sort of amusement over a period of months, even years. But this is not good for the child. It is teaching him the very thing he should not learn. If the child is to acquire an ability for useful self-amusement, he must learn to find enjoyment at construction. If therefore, the parent is going to help the child at all with blocks, he will not let this child knock down the things built for him.

Without punishment, but with gentle restraint and patient, skilful suggestions, the baby can be taught to desist from knocking down the structure and take the blocks down caerfully, one by one. This is not a guess. I worked it out in great detail with my own children when they were very young. In consequence, they not only learned not to be destructive, but learned to find self-amusement for hours alone at a time, building and inventing with simple blocks.

Different Shapes Best

The usual cubical blocks are not the best. There should be some oblong in shape, two or three times as long as they are square on the end. A few strips, six inches or longer, are also desirable. There should be several pieces of the same dimension. Parents or older children can, with a saw and plane, make the best kind of simple building material for the child under four or five.

When a child deliberately breaks a toy or dashes it to pieces, punish him immediately, being sure that it was not an accident. But remember that being careful may not mean the same to the child as it does to you.

Merely removing a toy from a child when he is rough with it may not teach him carefulness. Some children are so destructive with toys that they are given practically none. In order to learn carefulness, however, they must have toys and be taught to use them carefully.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

MILK TO MILK.

Shakespeare wrote about the Seven Ages of Man. Modern wits have been constantly endeavoring to improve his catalogue. Now there comes along one who says that there are Eleven Ages of Man and he expresses these Eleven Ages by referring to the diet of man. The menu runs along like this:

Milk.
Milk and bread.
Milk, eggs, bread and spinach.
Oatmeal, bread and butter, green apples and all-day suckers.
Ice cream soda and hot dogs.
Minute steak, fried potatoes, coffee and apple pie.
Bouillon, roast duck, scalloped potatoes, creamed broccoli, fruit salad, divinity fudge, demi-tasste.
Pate de foie gras, wiener schnitzel, potatoes Parisienne, egg plant, a l'opera, demi-tasse, and Roquefort cheese.
Two soft-boiled eggs, toast and milk.
Crackers and milk.
Milk.
In other words, Milk to Milk.

"Well," he said, "I once drove a ball — accidentally, of course — through a cottage window. The ball knocked over an oil lamp, and the place caught fire."

"What did you do then?" asked his friends.

"Oh," said the veteran, "I immediately teed another ball, took careful aim, and hit the fire alarm box on the next corner. And that brought out the fire department before any damage was done."

Good Taste

Reg. U. S. Patent Office

Did you ever note that the more important an executive is the more courteous he is in receiving you? If he is a man of power who has had a social background, he will never fail to rise from his desk chair to greet a woman visitor no matter how humble she may be. The man at the desk who overlooks these courtesies can generally be rated in the lower brackets. Of course, an employe before whose desk a line of customers must pass to register complaints or receive adjustments cannot be expected to bob up and down continually. But the executive who receives occasional visits from women rises to greet them if his training befits his rank.

Readers' Questions Answered

Dear Miss Markel: Please tell me which is the correct form for thanking friends for floral pieces and notes of sympathy at times of bereavement . . . personal notes or printed cards?—B. L.

Answer: Personal notes, always.

Dear Miss Markel: Please give me some suggestions for a spelling bee for a young children's party. Mother X.

Answer: On long cards or slips of paper write a list of 25 misspelled words, the same words on each slip. Distribute them so that each child receives one slip with instructions to correct the spelling in a quarter hour or given time, depending on the number of words. Then dictate the correct spelling, each child correcting his slip. Give first, second and consolation prizes to those with the best, second best and worst averages.

Dear Miss Markel: I have been asked by a boy at college to correspond with him. Please give me some advice on good taste in letter writing.—Mary Q.

Answer: Avoid the telegram form of letter writing: "Am glad to get your letter." Say "I am glad," etc. Always have a subject in every sentence. Use dark blue or black ink, eschewing a pencil or typewriter, unless necessity demands. Do not use ruled, scented, fancy or highly colored paper. Write as you would talk, avoiding stilted phrases. Wait for him to write the first letter and do not write again until he answers yours.

But still it's called a hat!
A breath of wind might toss it off,
Ah, no, it clings there pat!

It's just a smart, fantastic hat
Adorning pretty girls
With rosebud mouths—dangerous smiles,
And head with odd-fixed curls

Perched high, perched low, fantastic hat,
Seems daring all to say,
"You crazy, loony, funny thing,
Suppose you've come to stay!"

A freakish hat, a flippant hat,
"Come-hither" hat it is-
With streaming veils and pots of flowers,
It's just a "blooming whiz."

What's What At A Glance

Hitler Is Believed Desperate
Peace Bid Shows Leader Anxious
Might Offer Some Few Concessions

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

BRITISH and French diplomacy in Washington unquestionably is convinced that Herr Hitler realizes that he has "bitten off more than he can chew"—which is why he evidently is so desperately anxious to have peace arranged for him. To be sure, he wants peace on his own terms—meaning, in effect, a victorious peace for Germany. Nevertheless, the opinion's expressed that he's prepared to make some few concessions rather than fight to a finish.

True, this judugment, as previously remarked, is Allied diplomacy's judgment, and maybe it's colored by a certain amount of wishful thinking. You by no means get the same reaction from talks with German representatives in our capital; you wouldn't expect to. At all events, you wouldn't expect them to be making any such admission. Still, you do hear the most fervent peace talk at Adolf's embassy. To listen to it, you'd conclude that the Nazis are regular Quakers.

Various neutral embassies and legations (Scandinavia's, the Balkans', Belgium's, Holland's, Switzerland's and Italy's) also hint that they believe the Fuehrer to be plenty nervous.

Our State Department, strictly sub rosa, has the same notion.

Of course all these foreign outfits get their dope from their respective home governments, which, in turn, get it by pipeline out of Germany and possibly supplement it with a bit of hopeful guessing. Therefore, it's hard to tell just how reliable it is. However, there's a good deal of unanimity about it. Moreover, it's borne out by Americans recently from the Fatherland—though they certainly do have a "passion for anonymity" if they're figuring on returning there on their own or Uncle Sam's business.

What's Hitler's Status?

It isn't disputed that Adolf can put up a nasty scrap, whatever the final outcome, provided he has Germany solidly behind him.

But the solidity of his standing in his home country is doubted.

The situation is diagnosed thus:

In 1914 the Germans had a kaiser who subsequently blew up, but at that particular time he assuredly had his whole people back of him. He was a national symbol. The Prussian military class swore by him. He was at least reasonably popular with the German masses. His rule was middling dictatorial, but nothing to compare with the Fuehrer's. He didn't cut his subjects' heads off for listening in on the radio. (They didn't have radio broadcasts then, or perhaps it would have occurred to him. Anyway, he didn't do it).

Hitler's different.

There's nothing immemorial about him and his family.

There's nothing traditionally sacred about him to the average German. There was a modicum of dissatisfaction with his autocratic methods all along, except in strictly Nazi-istic circles. And it's no cinch that the Nazis ever were in a majority. They were in control of the national machinery, rather by accident. They smothered discontent, if any, and maybe there wasn't so much of it while Adolf was getting away with murder merely by bluffing. But won't there be lots of it if war drags along and Adolf begins to be blamed for getting his folk into it?

The military, aristocratic junkers apparently don't like him, either. There are reports that he's "purged" some of them and actually "liquidated" a few. It's understandable that these socially tony individuals resent him as an upstart proletarian—even as our American "upper crust" might resent it, were a "rough neck" to grab the government and begin bossing them around and snubbing and "liquidating" them.

Maybe So, Maybe Not

I don't say that all this is so.

I say only that it's Washington's diplomatic chatter.

It likewise is to the purport that Adolf senses his danger and literally is crazy to make peace before he's overthrown—or worse.

The Germans always have maintained that the Allies didn't lick them in the last war; that internal revolution was what defeated them. There's considerable plausibility about this version.

Well, if the historically intrenched kaiser could be revoluted out of office that time, why can't the accidental Fuehrer be revoluted out still more easily? Not if he can win a "lightning war", indeed, but this looks like stringing out indefinitely. That, diplomatic observers argue, is what makes him so abnormally pacifistic.

WAR

For what good sense could modify
Day after day young soldiers die.

For what a court could soon adjust,
They try with shot and bayonet thrust.

For what good will could smiling do,
A million graves are ordered new.

For what a word could bring to pass,
They blister lungs with mustard gas.
For quarrels that should never be
Destruction stalks the land and sea.

Oh how much farther lies before
The time when war will be no more?

The Stalin Trap Idea

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.

THERE seems just a little too much disposition in this country to accept the view that Mr. Stalin has made a sap out of Mr. Hitler, that the latter has fallen into a Russian trap and that from now on the man really to fear is the Russian dictator and not the German. So strongly has this point been made that it has become heretical to dissent.

NEVERTHELESS, it does not seem borne out by the facts; and while it has been promulgated by some of our more flaming international authorities, to say nothing of cartoonists and commentators, it is not altogether shared either by the more realistic observers or the calmer officials of the State Department. Moreover, they seem to have fairly good reasons for not doing so. In the first place, it is pointed out that the Communist organs here are the ones most vociferously playing up Mr. Stalin as the Master Mind of the Russian-German axis. The energy of these publications is almost wholly devoted at this time to insisting that the stupid Fuhrer has been tricked by the sapient Stalin—who from now on is in the dominant position, able to dictate and direct. The very fact that all the Communist and near Communist papers and magazines in the United States are united in the effort to impress this idea upon the public mind is one of the best reasons for rejecting it.

IT is, of course, a soothing and convenient belief for those pink publications which were so painfully impaled when the Russian-German alliance was announced. Their sufferings are obviously mitigated by the thought that the brutal and licentious Hitler has merely been used as a cat's-paw by Stalin, who thus has obtained enormous concessions without the necessity of fighting for them. Hitler, the argument runs, had not the remotest notion when he invaded Poland of the trap in which he is caught and now lives in fear of Stalin without whose support he is lost. One Communistically inclined orator a few days ago asserted that Stalin is now in position to prolong the war by switching from side to side until Germany on the one hand and the Allies on the other reach a stage of chaotic exhaustion which will render a calculated Communist revolution easy and inevitable in both.

THAT is a sample of the kind of stuff which is now being peddled in this country. While it is extreme, it really is not illogical once the notion is accepted that Hitler innocently put himself at the mercy of Stalin, has been forced to give away the fruits of his Polish victory and is now unable to resist any Russian demand. That Russia profited greatly by the German conquest of Poland is, of course, obvious. She got the part of that country for which she has long itched and which was once a part of Russia. And she has acquired ports in the Baltic and established herself as the "protector" of the little buffer states of Estonia and Latvia.

BUT that she got more than Hitler was willing to give as a price for Russian support or anything that he wanted himself, or anything that endangers himself, is an idea hard to sustain. For one thing, it assumes that Hitler is idiotic. Ruthless, vicious, unscrupulous he undoubtedly is, but no one has yet called him a fool. His course and conduct in the last two years have shown him destitute of honor and devoid of shame but not silly—and that is what he would have had to be to have, as is contended, walked into the Stalin trap. He may, as some assert, be demented, but he isn't an imbecile. His whole record negatives that view.

THERE is the further point that Stalin has seen the German Army in action; that he knows by close observation its force, efficiency and mechanized completeness; that he knows better than anyone else its immense superiority in equipment, training and discipline to his own Red Army, mostly commanded by raw boys who have taken the place of "liquidated" officers. It isn't reasonable to suppose that after witnessing the job the Germans did in Poland he would care to turn that German war machine against himself. It is much more reasonable to think that that spectacle inspired him with considerable respect and that the concessions he has obtained have solidified his alliance with Hitler in his fight against the democracies which Stalin hates and against which the Communist propaganda is primarily directed. At any rate, that is the way some usually well-informed people here feel about it.

Mars Proximity To Earth Held No Cause For Conflict

Penn State Physicist Ridicules Astrologers Who Advance Claim

(International News Service)

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Oct. 20.—Astrologers who are attempting to tie up Europe's current war with the proximity of the planet Mars are spreading just so much blarney, in the opinion of Dr. Henry L. Yeagley, assistant professor of physics at Pennsylvania State College.

Taking cognizance of recent statements by some astrologers that the "war planet" is making men unusually war-minded this year, he declared:

"The only effect Mars might have—and of course this shouldn't be discounted—is the significance that leaders and peoples might be persuaded to give it in their own minds. Thus it can baselessly influence important decisions, resulting in war.

"Even if Mars did exert a direct solar influence for war, it wouldn't be any stronger this year than in many years. Mars is 4,000,000 miles nearer the earth now than it will be in October, 1941, yet at the later date it will be seen more clearly from the northern hemisphere. That is because it is close to the horizon this year, and appears hazy.

"Since time immemorial, Mars has been close to the earth every 15 years. The next time, in 1954, it will be higher on the northern horizon and hence much clearer."

Examine Parts Of Wrecked Airplane Washed Ashore

(International News Service)

BOSTON, Oct. 20.—Parts of a barnacle-encrusted silver colored monoplane, landed at the Fish Pier today after being hauled aboard in a net off Georges Banks, are believed by fishermen to be part of the plane in which Cheston L. Eshelman, Carlisle, Pa., "Mars" flier, crashed on June 7.

Although the wreckage, landed by the fishing trawler Plymouth, was at first believed to be part of the cub type aircraft in which Andrew Carnegie Whitfield, 28, New York society aviator, disappeared on April 15, 1938, the theory was discontinued by fishermen.

The wreckage was found near the spot where Eshelman was forced down, they pointed out. Additional parts of the "Mars" flier's plane were recently discovered in the same vicinity.

H. D. Pattison has resigned his position on the election board in the first district of the first ward. Judge Thomas W. Dickey filled the vacancy today by the appointment of Bertrim Sisley.

George W. Cramer, of 214 Pearson street, this city, has filed a suit at the prothonotary's office against Arthur Caracter of Beaver Falls in which he asks for damages to his automobile in a collision on the New Castle-Wampum road, near the Medusa Cement plant, south of Wampum. Cramer claims that he was driving toward New Castle and Caracter was driving toward Beaver Falls. The latter had passed a car, and was over the center line of the road when he crashed into the Cramer car. Cramer claims $246.20 damages to his car and has issued a capias ad respondedum to hold for bail in the sum of $400.

This date is particularly brought to the attention of those farmers who are applying lime and superphospate for pasture improvement under the materials program, and the state committee urges those farmers to apply such materials immediately after their arrival."

County commissioners are preparing to put in a drive from the intersection of County Line and East Washington street, to the Boyles property. Work of grading the grounds is also to be started in a few days. It is proposed to grade the grounds to conform with the grade of the court house lawn. Government Will Buy New Vehicles For Use In Army

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—Taking another step to streamline the U. S. army, the war department announced today it would purchase 12,000 motor vehicles from the automobile industry at an approximate cost of $15,000,000.

The procurement division of the department announced previous invitations for bids had been amended to provide for increase orders so that the five regular army streamlined divisions would have adequate mobile equipment.

The increased equipment was necessary because of plans for extensive army maneuvers in the south this winter. With present equipment, the army could hold only small local maneuvers.

At the same time, the war department said that even its recruiting stations were being mobilized. Eighteen large truck trailers will be ordered, it was said, to serve as mobile recruiting stations to move throughout the country.

Short-Wave System Of Communication For State Foresters

Portable Radio Sets For Use In Forest Fire And Flood Warning Work Planned

(International News Service)

EMPORIUM, Pa., Oct. 20—A short-wave communication system through which state foresters will carry their own portable radio sets for the purpose of forest fire detection and for flood warnings today was announced by the department of forests and waters.

The announcement was made by Deputy Secretary Charles E. Baer at a dedication of a roadside memorial to the eight CCC boys who perished in a forest fire near Emporium one year ago today.

Baer intimated he felt that the fire which trapped the CCC boys was the work of an incendiary and warned that persons caught starting a forest fire which resulted in death might be charged with first degree murder.

Short-wave radio system was being instituted as part of the state's more rigorous campaign to apprehend incendiaries, said Baer. It will cover at least one-third of the state principally the forest districts. Foresters and rangers, with more than 100 portable sets at their disposal, will be able, said Baer, as they patrol the mountains to keep in constant communication with district foresters' offices and the department of forests and waters at Harrisburg. Fire-wardens and state Motor police can thus also be immediately advised of possible incendiarism.

Cowing declared that a large proportion of the boys on the part-time work program will be assigned to construction and reclamation tasks in municipal, county and state parks. Steel Usage At High Point

Over Nine Tons In Use In this Country For Every Inhabitant Is Estimate

LIFE OF METAL ALSO INCREASED

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—The amount of steel in use in the United States rose to a new high level during 1938, amounting to approximately 1,136,000,000 tons at the close of the year, as estimated by the American Iron and Steel Institute.

Included in that estimated tonnage is the amount of steel in the capital goods of the nation such as buildings, bridges, machinery, railroad equipment, ships and the like, and also the steel in automobiles, house furnishings and other consumers' goods.

Since 1900 the amount of steel in use in this country has increased nearly 17 times as fast as the nation's population, with the result that the amount of steel in use per capita in 1938 was 650 per cent above the level of 1900. The increase is an indication of the rise in living standards.

Nearly 19,500 pounds of steel were in service last year for every man, woman or child in this country, as against 2600 pounds per capita in 1900, and 18,100 pounds in 1937.

An important factor in increasing the stock of steel in use in the country has been the increase in the average life of steel in recent years. Improved technology in both the manufacture and use of steel in the past twenty years, including the rise of stainless and other alloy steels, has extended the average life of steel in service.

At the present time the useful life of all the different kinds of products made from steel is estimated to average about 35½ years. By comparison, in 1920 the estimated life was 23 years.

Deluxe Hermit Is Arrested For Theft

Staten Island Recluse Accumulates Big Cache In Pup Tent

(International News Service)

NEW YORK.—The story of Staten Island's gentleman hermit, who lived for nearly three years in a thickly-wooded section of the borough in a pup tent home equipped with portable radio, was revealed with the arrest of Frank Nolte, 34, on the charge of burglary.

Nolte, a former inmate of Central Islip State Hospital, had accumulated a wardrobe of more than a dozen suits, a huge supply of canned goods, a small portable sewing machine on which he did his own mending and enough dental equipment to fill and extract his own teeth.

Police started a four-day search for Nolte when they recalled that the techneque of a recent series of petty burglaries resembled that used by Nolte before he was committed to Central Islip nine years ago.

Lived In Belfry

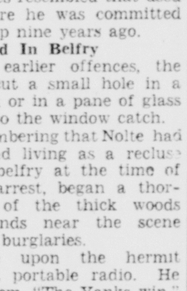

As in the earlier offences, the burglar had cut a small hole in a window screen or in a pane of glass to get across to the window catch.

Police, remembering that Nolte had been discovered living as a recluse in a church belfry at the time of his previous arrest, began a thorough search of the thick woods and swamplands near the scene of the recent burglaries.

They came upon the hermit listening to a portable radio. He calmly told them, "The Yanks win."

He was found immaculately attired in white shoes, a well-pressed suit and clean white shirt.

The Citizens Of The Kingdom

Highlights On The Sunday School Lesson

The Golden Text

"Let your light so shine before men, that they may see your good works, and glorify your Father which is in heaven."—Matthew 5:16.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for October 22, is Matthew 5:1-16, the Golden Text being Matthew 5:16, "Let your light so shine before men, that they may see your good works and glorify your Father which is in Heaven.")

About a year after Jesus' temptation in the wilderness, He made His headquarters in Capernaum. From there He went on a preaching tour through Galilee. It is thought that just previous to this He had chosen His twelve disciples and they were with Him.

Many people must have been attracted to His teaching and followed Him about for the account says that "seeing the multitudes" He went up into a mountain and when He was set His Disciples came unto Him." The sermon on the mount, or the "Beatitudes," as they are called, show the type of people whom Jesus wanted for His Kingdom of Heaven. Beatitudes comes from the word "beati" which in the Latin version of the Scriptures began the first nine verses of the sermon.

There are so many beautiful quotations in today's lesson that it is hard to choose which ones to quote. The Beatitudes come first, however, and they really are the lesson for today. Let us take the first one: "Blessed are the poor in spirit, for theirs is the kingdom of Heaven." "Poor in spirit" does not mean "Mean spirited". It means to be humble, not puffed up, in our own esteem. Such have the Kingdom of Heaven all about them.

Mourners Shall Be Comforted

"Blessed are they that mourn" for they shall be comforted." Doesn't that mean that those who try to bear their troubles bravely win comfort in time? God comforts them.

"Blessed are the meek, for they shall inherit the earth." Boasters and bullies may seem to get on but in the end it is those who are gentle and just who win the good things of life.

"Blessed are they which do hunger and thirst after righteousness, for they shall be filled." It is as true as true can be that those who strive all their lives to be faithful and true, are filled with righteousness and contentment.

"Blessed are the merciful: for they shall obtain mercy." You all know people who are always ready to help others and who, when they are in need of aid, get it from those they have helped.

"Blessed are the pure in heart; for they shall see God." These are the people who are not only clean in body but their minds are clean. They think cleanly about things that are worth while.

"Blessed are the peacemakers: for they shall be called the children of God." How badly we need peacemakers in these troubled times. If all the people of goodwill and who love peace should combine, do you suppose they could bring about the peace which the world needs so badly?

Martyrs Are Blest

Lastly, "Blessed are they which are persecuted for righteousness sake; for theirs is the Kingdom of Heaven. Blessed are ye when men shall revile you, and persecute you, and shall say all manner of evil against you falsely, for My sake. Rejoice and be exceeding glad, for great is your reward in Heaven, for so persecuted they the prophets."

Possibly Jesus was heartening disciples when he said this, for He knew that if they were true to Him and to His teachings, they were sure to be persecuted and eventually martyred.

"Ye are the salt of the earth," Jesus told His disciples and followers. But, if the salt has lost its savor (flavor) wherewith shall it be salted? The flavor of salt, once lost cannot be returned. But people, who have been backsliders and have departed from the right way, may repent and be forgiven.

What good does a lighted candle do if it is put under a bushel? No one can see the light. So it is with men and women. "Let your light so shine before men," says our Golden Text, "that they may see your good works and glorify your Father which is in Heaven.

That does not mean that you should boast of your good works. But it does mean that it should be known that it is your religion that makes you eager to do what is right.

"Dream" Highway May Be Extended

Governor Welcomes Proposal To Extend All-Weather Route To Philadelphia

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Oct. 20.—Possible extension of Pennsylvania's $61,000,000 "dream" highway to Philadelphia was hailed by Gov. Arthur H. James as a "welcome" proposal.

The chief executive declared "it would certainly be worth looking into if we should get a proposition from the Reconstruction Finance corporation similar to the one on the present turnpike."

A move by the federal government to extend the Harrisburg-Pittsburgh super-road to Philadelphia, the governor stated, would bring all possible state cooperation.

Governor James pointed out, however, that he felt it might be more difficult to collect tolls on a Philadelphia-Harrisburg route than on the present turnpike, because the topography is more level in the east.

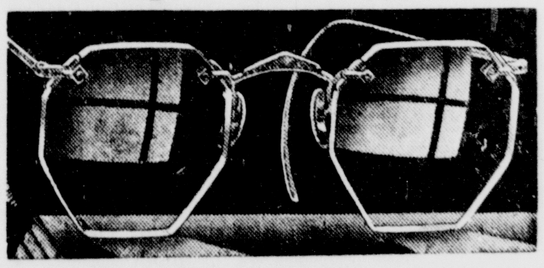

The war resources board of the federal government as a national defense safeguard. Military leaders feel that extension of the superhighway to connect the steel and industrial center of western Pennsylvania with the navy yard at Philadelphia might prove to be the "nation's lifeline" in an emergency.

The RFC put up $35,000,000 of the $61,000,000 for the present highway. The PWA gave an outright grant of $26,000,000. The money is to be paid back from tolls collected on the road.

Johnson Warns On Repeal Of Embargo Act

California Senator Assails Repeal In Dramatic Speech In Senate

WOULD PLACE U. S. IN SHADOW OF WAR

By EDWARD B. LOCKETT
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—In a setting heavy with drama, silver-haired Senator Hiram Johnson of California warned the senate today that repeal of the U. S. arms embargo would place the United States "in the shadow, walking down the bloody path to war."

One of the senators whom President Wilson described as the "little band of willful men" who prevented America's entrance into the league of nations, Johnson, in solemn words, declared:

"Our paramount interest is in staying out of war and preserving our form of government, our economy and our standard of living.

"War would destroy them. Stay out, Americans."

As on the historic occasion of 20 years ago when he fought the Versailles treaty which would have taken the United States into the league, Johnson took the floor as co-leader with Senator Borah (R) Idaho—they have been called the "great isolationists"—of the senate forces fighting against repeal of the embargo.

Johnson rejected the "fears that totalitarian governments would come over to America" if aid were not extended to Great Britain and France through the lifting of the embargo.

The Californian said:

"Hitler will never conquer Europe. It has never been done by any one yet. Countless efforts have been made to establish (European) hegemony by force and none have succeeded. The closest approach to any was made by Napoleon and to compare Hitler to Napoleon is absurd."

Turning directly on the administration-sponsored neutrality legislation, Johnson told his colleagues two truths were "self-evident" in the battle for embargo repeal:

"1. That the repeal of the embargo favors the allies.

"2. That such repeal accomplished after beginning of the war would be unneutral."

"Magazine Racket" Is Being Worked In This District

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Oct. 20.—A new "magazine subscription racket," flourishing chiefly in western Pennsylvania but feared to be spreading eastward, was revealed today by Walter S. Cowing, state NYA administrator.

Cowing disclosed that in an attempt to obtain subscriptions a magazine salesman, identified only as "G. A. Wilson," has falsely promised parents that in return for taking his subscriptions he would arrange for their children to receive NYA aid.

"Several instances of this salesman's misrepresentations have been brought to my attention," Cowing declared, "and I wish to state emphatically that this Mr. Wilson or any other sales agent has absolutely no connection with the National Youth Administration."

Cowing said the "racket" has been operating mainly in the Pittsburgh, Uniontown and Erie areas.

British Press Hurls Criticism At Chamberlain

London Daily Herald, Laborite Newspaper, Leads In Barrage Of Criticism

By CHARLES A. SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Oct. 20.—Despite widespread approval of the Anglo-French-Turkish mutual aid pact, which is regarded as a major triumph for the Allies, the British press crashed down on the government of Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain today with a veritable barrage of criticism.

Editorials carried by the papers charged the government with grave errors and "stupidity."

One of the leaders in this campaign was the London Daily Herald, a Laborite newspaper always critical of Chamberlain's policies.

It said the government had committed grave errors both in principle and execution, adding:

"Such errors are unpardonable at a time of most serious national emergency."

The Herald asserted these errors were due to "inability of the government, notably the prime minister, and some of his closest colleagues to adjust their minds to the new situation.

"One root of the trouble, and one for which the nation already has paid heavily, is Chamberlain's love of surrounding himself with 'yes men.'"

The Herald said that if the present British leaders cannot govern the country, "the nation must replace them with men who can."

The London Daily Mail also joined in the blast with this statement:

"Turn where you will, bumbledom its silly, stupid head. Whitehall was bad enough in peace time, but now in war the bureaucratic mania spreads everywhere like a plague."

The Daily Express defended the right to "criticize stupidity and slackness so that they may cease to hamper the nation." The paper added:

"It is wiser to expose defects at once than to let them grow worse."

New Type Paving Of Cement And Earth Seen

It hasn't been so long ago that any one who mixed cement with earth with the idea of getting anything but a muddy mess was considered to be slightly balmy. It just wasn't done, fact is, it couldn't be done, so the experts said. You couldn't get a union and so where were you.

It can be done and on Thursday at noon, Miles D. Catton, of the Portland Cement Association, proved it to a group of city and county officials, park board members, cement manufacturers and a few invited guests.

Had The Evidence

Mr. Catton showed them pictures of roads that had been built of soil-cement mixtures, roads that stood up under reasonably heavy traffic, roads that produced material of concrete hardness. And in the showing Mr. Catton convinced the group that a new field was opened for the use of cement and at the same time light type roads or streets could be built at a cost much lower than they are at present.

The process of mixing cement with earth and making a street or highway is not an involved one nor a mysterious one. Briefly it is this: Samples of the earth in the street or road to be improved are examined in the laboratory to ascertain just what percentage of cement is needed.

Preparing Road

With the cement percentage determined the road is prepared. First it is scarified to the depth of six inches. Then disc harrow pulverizes the earth until it is nearly as fine as your garden plot. Next the cement is put on dry, a cultivator and disc harrow go over it and mix it much as your wife mixes baking pastry flour. Water is applied under pressure, more mixing, then more water and finally a sheeps' foot roller goes over it and pounds it down. When it is finally rolled down the result is a hard, durable material over which black top is poured for finishing purpose.

Tests in all parts of the country have proven the worth of this soil-cement mixture for light type highways and streets.

It took several years of experimentation to arrive at the present knowledge of mixing earth with soil. Over and over again the scientists toiled with the problem, trying new leads, discarding them and getting others until finally they arrived at the proper solution. The trick is in knowing the proper moisture content for mixing and there it was.

The demonstration was an interesting one and many of the officials present expressed the hope that the new system might be tried in this county

Representing the Portland Cement Association were Mr. Catton, George Britten, district engineer, and M. R. McNary.

Tasty new BRAN REFRIGERATOR ROLLS—TRY THEM

Finer hot breads and cakes with purer Spry—deep-fries without acrid smoke or odor

SPRY is purer. Stays fresh longer. Creams so easily. These are mighty important advantages and only Spry gives you all three! Change to Spry for all baking and frying.

BRAN REFRIGERATOR ROLLS

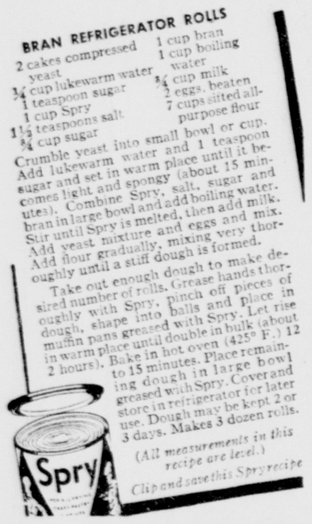

2 cakes compressed yeast; 1 cup lukewarm water; ¼ cup lukewarm sugar; 1 teaspoon sugar; 1 cup Spry; 1½ teaspoons salt; ¾ cup sugar; 1 cup bran; 1 cup boiling water; ¾ cup milk; 2 eggs, beaten; 7 cups sifted all-purpose flour

Crumble yeast into small bowl or cup. Add lukewarm water and 1 teaspoon sugar and set in warm place until it becomes light and spongy (about 15 minutes). Combine Spry, salt, sugar and bran in large bowl and add boiling water. Stir until Spry is melted, then add milk. Add yeast mixture and eggs and mix. Add flour gradually, mixing very thoroughly until a stiff dough is formed.

Take out enough dough to make desired number of rolls. Grease hands thoroughly with Spry, pinch off pieces of dough, shape into balls and place in muffin pans greased with Spry. Let rise in warm place until double in bulk (about 2 hours). Bake in hot oven (425° F.) 12 to 15 minutes. Place remaining dough in large bowl greased with Spry. Cover and store in refrigerator for later use. Dough may be kept 2 or 3 days. Makes 3 dozen rolls.

(All measurements in this recipe are level.)

Neighbors Harvest Corn Crop For Man With Heart Trouble

Fifty Friends Of Stricken Farmer Make Short Work Of His Crop

R. N. Ludwig, whose farm is located about one mile west of New Wilmington on New Wilmington-Pulaski road is feeling happy today because friends and neighbors have harvested his nine acres of corn. Mr. Ludwig is suffering from a heart ailment, which has kept him confined to his home for some two months. Meanwhile he worried over the harvesting of his corn.

Learning that he would be unable to harvest the crop himself nearly 50 men—many of them Amish—yesterday morning gathered at the Ludwig farm. They went into the fields and by chore time had nearly all the nine acres of corn husked and in the barn.

Two of the men who volunteered their services were over 80 years old, but "they sure did their share" as one farmer expressed it.

The men weren't the only ones who took part in the "husking bee." Early in the morning the womenfolks—many of them Amish, too—were at work in the Ludwig kitchen.

At noon they served dinner to 55 persons, a dinner of baked ham, candied sweet potatoe and "all the trimmins" made as only the Amish can make them.

Mr. Ludwig hasn't enough kind words for his friends and neighbors.

Japs Pay Four Dollars After Bombing Mission

Huge Sum Expended By United State To Collect Small Bill

(International News Service)

PEKING.—Officials of the American embassy ruefully confess that a vast amount of indignation, telegraph tolls, stationery and salaries went into the collecting from Japan of a minute bill for the shelling of an American mission.

When Japanese warships were bombarding a small port on the south China coast preparatory to landing operations, the report was received that the American mission there was struck.

Preliminary protests were made to the Japanese at various points of contact between them and American diplomatic and consular authorities. This fresh disregard of the Stars and Stripes in the war zone made the headlines.

The American navy got into the protest game likewise. From Peking to Shanghai, to Hongkong, to Washington, telegrams and cables were relayed.

Eventually the American consulate general at Shanghai advised the American Embassy that the Japanese in Hongkong had settled the claim of the damaged American mission in full to consulate there.

The missionaries had assessed the damage to property and Submitted a bill for Hongkong currency, $13.75, approximately $4 in American money. This the Japanese paid in full.

WOMAN ON OUTING PHONES FIREMAN TO TURN OFF GAS

(International News Service)

CINCINNATI, O.—The telephone rang in the fire tower at City Hall. "I'm attending an outing at Coney Island" said the caller, a woman who gave her address, but not her name. "I think I forgot to turn off the gas under a pot of beans at home. Can you make sure?"

"Enjoy yourself, madam" replied Operator Charles Irish, "we'll take care of it."

And later Fireman John Lind reported.

"Arrived in nick of time. Water had just boiled off beans. No damage."

Russo-Chinese Alliance May Be In Prospect

(International News Service)

TOKYO, Oct. 20—Arrival of a new group of Soviet military officers at Chungking today led to belief in Toyko that a Russo-Chinese military alliance is in the making.

A similar delegation reached Chungking two weeks ago, and at that time it was reported that Red army officers, including military specialist, had been assigned to command of various Chinese detachments.

War Minister Hata went before the Japanese cabinet today and reported in detail on the European and Asiatic military situation.

Ever since the outbreak of hostilities in Europe, there have been repeated reports in Tokyo and Shanghai of an impending military alliance between China and Soviet Russia.

Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek has despaired of further aid or encouragement from the western powers in his efforts to throw off the Japanese yoke, and his eager acceptance of proferred Russian aid in the form of military advisers and specialists led to belief that China would soon sign a military agreement with the Soviets.

News And Views From Pennsylvania Capital

HARRISBURG, Oct. 20.—One of the big fights of the 1939 session of the legislature which resulted in a major defeat for Governor James may be re-enacted at the next regular session. . . . The legislative struggle which delayed final adjournment until the morning of Memorial Day was over the administration-backed, house-approved bill to set up county boards to pass upon liquor licenses.

Governor James recently said he was still convinced that this was a desirable plan. . . . In fact, he elaborated, license control was now actually in local hands for, said the governor, when a liquor licensee has his request for a license or renewal rejected he likely as not appeals to the county court. . . . The county court, said the governor, can overrule, and on many occasions does over-rule, the liquor board's ruling.

An attempt may also be made at the next regular session to wipe out the loophole in the civil service laws giving the governor the right to peremptorily dismiss civil service employes of the department of public assistance and the State Liquor Control board. . . . As yet the power has never been used.

In refusing to heed the request of a Schuylkill county coal company for the use of state police to expel anthracite bootleggers from the company's premises the James administration has taken the same stand adopted by the previous administration. . . . Col. Lynn G. Adams, motor police commissioner, said he had not even discussed the coal company request with the governor. . . The administration was taking the attitude that the coal company had suitable remedy under the law through appeal to the local county sheriff and that the state would take no action without an appeal from the sheriff for aid. . . . The administration is hopeful anyways that the current war boom in the anthracite industry may wipe out bootlegging.

One hundred and twenty-five miles of the 160-mile Pennsylvania turnpike being constructed through the mountains between Harrisburg and Pittsburgh is now already in use. . . . But only by official automobiles of the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission. . . . The commission termed the road "passable" for that length. . . . About 50 miles of the super-highway have been graded and approximately 10 miles in Cumberland county paved. . . . The road will open for traffic in June, 1940.

Moving is about underway on a large scale from the main capitol building to the new $5,000,000 finance building. . . . The auditor general's department will be the first to move, followed by revenue and treasury.

United States Held Owner Of Antarctic Land

Map Makers Aver Byrd-Ellsworth Quadiant Belongs To United States

MAP MAKERS WAGE BATTLE

By WILLIAM L. COLLINS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO—A bitter battle against the British Empire is being waged by a little group of Chicagoans.

They seek to wrest from Britain a territory 1,000,000 square miles in area—an area one-third as large as the United States.

These men have no thought of personal gain.

They are scientists and craftsmen, armed only with ink and pens and other tools of cartography.

One-fifth of the Antarctic continent, they insist, is the property of the United States.

These men are employes of the map publishing house, Rand- McNally Company, which claims that the United States owns the Byrd-Ellsworth Quardrant of the Antarctic Continent. The Quadrant includes 1,000,000 of the 5,000,000 square miles in Antarctica. It is triangular in shape, reaching along two longitudes from the South to the Antarctic oceans.

Boundries Of Area

Specifically, the area is a sector, bounded by Longitude 80 W., and Longitude 160 W., with the 70th latitudinal paralell as a base and the South Pole as the apex.

This territory was claimed by Admiral Richard E. Byrd and by Lincoln Ellsworth, but the claims were little more than formal gestures as the United States Government has never taken formal notice of them and there has been no action to establish under international law American rights to the territory.

Great Britain has not been so negligent. The governments of England, Australia and New Zealand have formally recognized ownership of more than 3,000,000 square miles of the ice-bound continent, and British maps show these claims. And they do not show any record of ownership for the territory claimed for the United States by the Rand-McNally mapmakers.

However, this story is not new. The map-makers have always been ahead of government action. The map-makers discover a bit of unclaimed land, mark it for their own country and later, when the value of the area is discovered, the government acts.

Potentialities Of Territory

And the value of the Antarctica territory may be immense. It is known that great mineral deposits, including coal, lie beneath the barren wastes of ice and snow. And there is a possibility the land may be rich in petroleum deposits.

Also there is a possibility, and a very distinct one, that aviation bases may one day be established in Antarctica. One Rand-McNally executive said:

"Aviation has changed ideas about the values of these out-of-the-way places. For instance; the Russians have proved that sub-stratosphere arctic flying is perfectly feasible.

"All right. Now just take an example. Following the great circle route, the customary course, an airplane flying from Sydney, Australia, to Buenos Aires would have to make a nonstop flight over water for more than 6,000 miles.

Facilities For Air Base

"But two air bases could be set up in Antarctica. A plane using these, and flying over the pole from Sydney would have a maximum of 1,500 miles in the longest waterflight. The rest of it could be made over land.

"And if we don't own this land, we have to get permission to establish air bases."

So the cartographers wage their war for the tremendous territory. And for air bases, and coal and petroleum.

Included in the sector are such well known names as Rockefeller, Plateau, Roosevelt Island, and Ruppert coast.

FORMER GERMAN COP RECALLS HIS ARREST OF HITLER

(International News Service)

VANCOUVER, B. C.—Joseph Poll, a former policeman in Nuremberg, Germany, now a farmer in Saskatchewan, Alberta, once arrested Adolph Hitler and always spoke of the Nazi dictator as "the little fellow."

So says J. M. Erraut, a brother-in-law of Poll, who is fond of recalling how Poll describes Hitler's arrest.

"Joe said he arrested Hitler in April, 1922, because Hitler's men, dressed like taxi-drivers, were raising hell in a Nuremberg cafe," said Erraut.

"The 'little fellow' came along quietly but Joe says he sure gave him some sass."

Erraut said Poll had had a nodding acquaintance with Hitler since 1908 and met him again in the German army in France. He recalled that Hitler was studious and painted very good pictures of old ruins.

"But Joe does not think much of 'the little fellow' and cannot understand how he has gone so far," Erraut said.

FRANCE WORKS ON NEW 70-TON OCEAN CLIPPER

(International News Service)

BORDEAUX, France., Aug. 10—Rapidly taking shape here in the new French challenge to the American Clipper Transatlantic Air Service—a new seventy-ton airliner accommodate 40 passengers and three tons of freight.

The giant Latecoere—Breguet monoplane under construction for Air France Transatlantic will have a wing span of 190 feet, slightly larger than the Clipper ships and a length of 140 feet. It's hulk will be pulled through the air at a speed of 225 miles an hour, by six 1,500 horsepower engines.

The crew will consist of two pilots, two navigators, two mechanics, a radio operator and two stewards. The motors can be checked in flight and the complete failure of two will not hinder the plane's operating time of 16 hours between France and America.

STATE TO REFUND CHAIN STORE TAX

HARRISBURG—Secretary of Revenue William J. Hamilton, Jr., today issued a warning to those persons who have paid chain store and theatre taxes to the Department of Revenue, under the act recently declared unconstitutional by the supreme court, against entering into any contracts with persons representing themselves as able to obtain refunds.

"In order to obtain refunds of moneys paid into the state treasury under the provisions of the act of June 5, 1937, all that is necessary is for the petitioner to file a written application with the Board of Finance and Revenue at Harrisburg. Blank forms for the purpose will be supplied by the Board of Finance and Revenue, care of the State Treasury Department, State Capitol, upon request. The petition may be executed by any principal officer of the claimant, if a corporation, or by the land owner or partner, if not.

Battle Against Tuberculosis Is Now Being Won

One Of America's Foremost Consultants On Lung Diseases Tells Of Situation

By MERRILL MUELLER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PARIS—Tuberculosis is waning as a serious disease, according to one of America's foremost consultants on lung diseases.

Dr. Edgar Mayer, New York state consultant and a member of the Cornell University faculty revealed during his tour of French hospitals recently, that tremendous strides are being made by the men in white in their efforts to minimize the dreaded lung ailment.

Drop In Death Rate

"Fifteen years ago," Dr. Mayer said, "tuberculosis ranked near the top in the order of death dealing diseases in the United States. Today, it ranks in seventh position. That should give you some idea of medical progress.

"The death rate of tuberculosis was 172 persons out of every 100,000 in 1900 but today that rate is down to 54 to 100,000 and it has been getting smaller every year.

"The development of X-rays to their present efficient state has been one of the most important factors in this success.

"Our attack, however, has been directed on three fronts: educating the public against the disease, isolation of known cases, and the most instrumental method, mass X-ray of thousands of persons to discover new cases.

"It is known now that the disease sets in before the symptoms appear and in this early stage the only safe diagnosis is by X-ray. However, the more recent fluoroscope lets us see the patients' chests under conditions similar to X-ray but more simple, and less expensive, cutting the cost from one dollar to a mere three cents. X-ray and the flouroscope have indeed been our greatest aids."

Activities In Cuba

Of late, Dr. Mayer has been working down in Cuba fighting against spreading tubercular conditions under the sanction of Colonel Batista, Cuba's leader. Dr. Mayer said these efforts have led to the taking of 100,000 pictures of different persons' chests, "at the rate of two a minute when we were really working."

"We found that tuberculosis conditions were most prevalent among unskilled labor, and young girls."

But while Dr. Mayer has good reports for the progress against tuberculosis he expressed the opinion that cancer of the lungs was increasing in number of cases. Doctors, he said, operate and remove the diseased lung, and patient surviving well on the other, but research is now going forward to find a preventative for such conditions.

Students Oppose Government Aid

Survey Is Made Of Fifteen Universities By Columbia Professor

(International News Service)

NEW YORK—American college students oppose governmental aid in financing their educations, according to a survey of fifteen universities made by Professor Elmo Roper of Columbia.

"Only 7.4 per cent of the students interviewed considered aid by the federal or state governments as desirable," Dean Carl W. Ackerman, of the Columbia Graduate School of Journalism, said in a report to Nicholas Murray Butler, the university's president.

"University students today are not applying the prevailing debt-theory of political economy in their own lives nor are they looking forward to the government to provide them with jobs," Dean Ackerman said.

According to the survey, the largest group of college students, 42.5 per cent, prefer part-time employment as "the best way for capable but needy students now in colleges or in universities to get financial assistance.

The second largest group, 32.3 per cent, favors scholarships

The Middle West and Far West, according to Dean Ackerman, appeared more favorable to all forms of student assistance than the East and South.

Asked what forms of financial aids they opposed, 24.2 per cent of the students cited government assistance.

The universities surveyed were Harvard, Brown, Syracuse, Columbia, Tulane, Alabama, Vanderbilt, Minnesota, Northwestern, Iowa, Oklahoma, Michigan State, Ohio State, California and Washington.

Brooklyn Painter Wins First Prize In Art Exhibit

By ALLAN J. FUNCH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 20.—For the first time in years, it appeared likely that the first prize selection of officials of the 1939 Carnegie International would meet with approval of both laymen and art critics.

Alexander Brook's "Georgia Jungle", a somber scene depicting the shallowness of southern Negro life, easily carried off the $1,000 first prize. The Brooklyn painter has combined a murky landscape with the figures of six Negroes, backgrounded by a dull sky in velvet tones.

Oriental Wins Prize

With the exception of one painting, American and French artists carried off all the honors of the 1939 International. Yasuo Kuniyoshi, an American artist born in Japan but now residing at Woodstock, N. Y., took second prize and $600 for his "Lay Figure—1938", a painting in semi-oriental manner depicting a lay figure from the studio draped across the arms of a straw rocking chair.

Third prize and $500 went to the Parisian artist, Marc Chagall, for his fanciful but rather stiff interpretation of "The Betrothed", showing a couple embracing with a large bouquet of flowers towering over them. His use of blues is particularly striking.

Mariano Andreu, a Spanish painter now working in Paris, won first honorable mention and $400 for his surrealistic "The Duel With One's Self". Andreu seems to have placed most of his attention upon vivid coloring and minute detail, much in the style of Salvador Dali.

King George Has Arduous Working Schedule To Face

War Pressure Forces British Monarch To Increase Daily Hours

By HOWARD BERRY
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON.—One of the busiest men in Britain today is King George VI who to meet the rush dealing with wartime documents and State papers has increased his office hours at Buckingham Palace from 10 to 16 hours a day.

In fact, so busy is the English monarch with the affairs of State that he finds it possible to meet Queen Elizabeth only once a day—at breakfast. Occasionally, however, there is a lull, and then their Majesties are able to have dinner together.

All the meals at Buckingham Palace are now as simple as possible, for the household has alredy been placed on a wartime basis of thrift and ecenomy.

New Work Room

To save the King's time a new room has been arranged adjoining his study. There His Majesty, attired in one of the service uniforms of the three British fighting forces—since war broke out he has had his civilan clothes brushed and put away in wardrobes for "the duration"—receives numerous callers, and is still within reach of three private telephones in his desk.

His Majesty's cherished "family hour" at tea with the Queen has been cancelled. Now a tea ray is brought to his desk, and one of his secretaries pours it out as they continue working.

Dickinson Airs Views On Warfare

Students At Pennsylvania College Are Divided In Opinions On Conflict

(International News Service)

CARLISLE, Pa., Oct. 20.—Dickinson college—students and faculty—are divided in their views regarding the European war.

The students want the allies to win, but oppose lifting the embargo on arms.

Typical of faculty comment on the possible outcome were these conflicting views as expressed by Professors Wulford Stough and C. W. Fink, of the history and economics departments, respectively:

Said Professor Stough: "The allies will win eventually. The British sea blockade will prove effective against Germany and Russia will have insufficient surplus commodities to be of any considerable help."

Says Professor Fink: "Russia can tighten her belt at home to be of great material aid to Germany in supplying wheat, metals and oil. Meanwhile the Germans may enlarge their submarine fleet with the result the British merchant vessels may be harassed indefinitely."

In a poll conducted by the Dickinsonian, student weekly, 439 students said they wanted the allies to win. Thirteen favored Germany and 68 were neutral.

Dr. Dafoe's Column On The Quintuplets And The Care Of Your Children

(Copyright 1939, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

CONSTIPATION A SYMPTOM OF ENLARGED LOWER INTESTINES

There is another disease whose symptoms are not unlike those digestive ailments we have been discussing for the last few days, and that is Hirschsprung's disease. This affliction was first mentioned in medical literature about 1842, but Dr. Hirschsprung in 1886 wrote an exhaustive description of it and it has carried his name ever since.

This disease often appears shortly after birth but the first symptoms have been known to appear in persons twenty years old. The disease is due to a very large lower intestine in which the food lies longer than it does in a normal person. There is a longer period between the time food is eaten and the waste is excreted. Of course constipation is one of the symptoms.

Some abnormally large intestines have been discovered in people suffering from this disease. Sometimes a bowel will be found that is four inches across instead of the normal inch. Naturally in such an intestive food is bound to gather and result in obstinate constipation.

The usual sign of this condition is, as you might expect, a distended abdomen. When this and a stubborn constipation appear in a young child and there is no sign of an imperforate anus, we begin to suspect Hirschsprung's disease.

The main treatment of this disease is directed toward preventing the food from lying in this dilated bowel. The diet should be made up of foods which will prevent the soft stools common in children. To do this we feed the child a minimum of milk and start as soon as possible on solid foods. In addition to these dietary measures the child must be given laxatives, even strong purgatives, to prevent food from lying in the bowel. Naturally this giving of laxatives and purgatives should never be undertaken by the parents. See your doctor and let him superintend the treatment. If you don't you are very likely to run into even more serious trouble.

This type of treatment with diet and drugs will be carried on by your doctor for some months to see what its effect will be on the child. If at the end of several months there has been no improvement in the condition, we begin to consider the advisability of an operation.

However, we wait until we are sure that the other treatment hasn't helped before we talk about operating. This is because the operation is a very serious one. Usually the operation is for the removal of the enlarged bowel.

Fortunately the Dionne Quintuplets haven't ever exhibited any traces of these bowel diseases we have been discussing. If they had I think we would have detected them because right from the time the children were born we have watched for any suspicious manifestations in their bowel movements. So much of a child's health can be told by the appearance of the waste materials of his body.

GEORGIA ADMITS 18-YEAR-OLD GIRL TO LAW PRACTICE

ATLANTA, Ga.—Miss Shirley Motley, 18, has started her legal career—the youngest person ever admitted to the Georgia bar.

The modern Portia is in every sense feminine. Tall, thin and brunette, Miss Motley has her own design for living.

As an attorney, she thinks that women lawyers should try to smooth over family troubles, cement disrupted families, and for herself, she does not intend to defend either of the disillusioned parties if a divorce case comes along.

Upon the shoulders of Miss Motley rests the responsibility of an invalid mother and a family of three children. But she is ambitious.

A high school graduate at 15, she decided to study the law because she liked it. She says she had not intended to take the bar examination until friends urged her to do so. She passed, and is ready to practice.

Food Prices In U. S. Due To Rise

Economists Expect War To Bring Price Increase On Many Commodities

(International News Service)

MINNEAPOLIS.—Rising food prices, which did not make themselves materially felt until two years after the World War began, may strike the United States more quickly as a result of the present European war.

This was the conclusion today of an analysis by economists for the Northwestern National Life Insurance Company who pointed out that, so far as effects on this country are concerned, the present war has been under way for a year.

"In the last war American living costs did not really begin to soar until the spring of 1917," their report said. "Thereafter, they zoomed dizzily for three years."

A more sudden increase in the present case is indicated by the fact that farm and food prices are now relatively low, and that, for nearly a year, American business has been feeling the stimulus of European war orders, according to these economists.

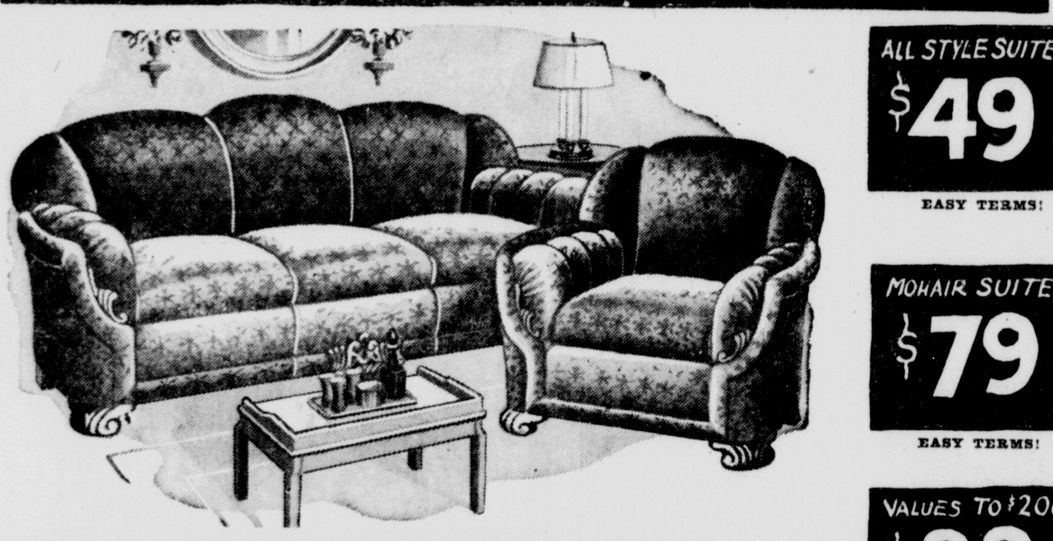

Comparison With World War

This stimulus was not felt in the World War until about five months after hostilities began, they said.

All living costs including rents, gasoline and clothing, are likely to go, and wages will increase as the unemployed are gradually absorbed, they concluded.

Given Up For Dead; Man Returns Home

Missing For Thirteen Years J. E. Shannon, 65, Returns To Pittsburgh

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 20—An aging little man who was given up for dead by his family when he failed to return home from work 13 yaers ago came back to Pittsburgh today to be greeted by his loved ones.

Puzzled and bewildered, James E. Shannon, now 65, stepped from a bus in the local station this morning to find no one awaiting him. A few minutes later, his four daughters—now grown women—rushed into the depot and smothered him with embraces and kisses.

Tears dampened his cheeks at the greeting. Then they left by car for his home where his wife, Mrs. Alice Shannon, was waiting. She had not come along because she is still suffering from the shock of her husband's return from what she thought was the grave.

Waiting also were 11 grandchildren, seven of whom he had never seen.

Thirteen years ago, on July 26, 1926, Shannon left his home, then in suburban Knoxville, to go to work on a county road job. He never returned and after a while he was given up as dead.

Two weeks ago he applied for old age pension in California. He told officials there he had a vague feeling that he had a family somewhere and a nationwide checkup resulted, with social agencies finally locating his family here.

Because of the lateness of the hour, election of officers and the business session of the county branch of the P.S.E.A. was postponed and will take place at a called meeting in the near future.

Mrs. W. F. Miller, president of the Lawrence county teachers group presided at the dinner, when the following program was presented:

Reading—Mrs. Victor Koach.
Music.
"Teacher Credit Unions,"—J. C. Ward.
"New Amendments"—J. A. Dodds, president of the Mid-Western District Council.
"Report on Nominations"—John Sahli, Beaver Falls.
Music.
Reading—Mrs. Victor Koach.
Address—Dr. Harvey E. Gayman.

The institute sessions were among the finest held in recent years, and the speakers, Robert Kazmayer, vagabond and lecturer; Guy Morse Bingham, lecturer and humorist; and Dr. W. F. H. Wentzel, director of Humane Education of the Western Pennsylvania Humane Society; held the interest of the assembly in all their talks.

Many of the teachers are attending the sessions of the Mid-Western Council, which takes place today at The Cathedral.

Remainder Of Gorge Ride At Cascade Being Dismantled

At Cascade Park, Thursday, there were about a dozen workmen employed taking down the remainder of the framework of the "gorge" ride. The gorge ride was built about seventeen years ago, and was a very popular amusement in operation until about three years ago. Two forty foot sections were cut and dropped in the morning, and it is expected the last section will be taken care of today.

Much of the lumber will be salvaged, and will be used for constructing shelter stations, making fences and repair work.

With the removal of the gorge framework, much of the natural beauty of this portion of the park, will be retored.

There are now eleven N. Y. A. youths at work, painting park tables, shelter stations, and repairing and painting fences.

Superintendent Coulthard states that these men will be utilized almost all winter to work on the various projects sanctioned for the park.

Slayer Scheduled To Die On Monday Babbles In Cell

Paul Ferry, Erie County Ax-Slayer Of Wife, Will Walk Last Mile Monday Morning

(International News Service)

ERIE, Pa., Oct. 20.—Still unaware that his last clemency plea has been refused, Paul Ferry, 51-year-old convicted ax-murderer, babbled incoherently about a fabulous estate in his cell here today while Warden Matt Hess tried to tell him that he is to die in the electric chair Monday morning.

Hess said he attempted to inform Ferry of his impending fate last night, but the condemned man would talk of nothing but a doctor whom he claimed owed him $1,209, and the large amounts of money he planned to give to the warden, the chief of police, the district attorney and others.

Factually, Ferry is broke. Early tomorrow, he is scheduled to take his last automobile ride in the outside world, travelling from the Erie county jail to the Rockview state prison at Bellefonte. There, in the wee hours of Monday morning, an unidentified electrician will pull the switch that ends his life and expiates his debt to society.

Ferry was convicted in November, 1936, of hacking his wife to death with an ax. He was granted 13 respites by two governors while a sanity commission studied his case. On Thursday, the pardon board turned down his last appeal and sentenced him to die.

It will be some little time yet before Sowinski is able to be about without crutches, but he is making a nice recovery from his injuries, it is stated.

Guffey Coal Act Is Being Assailed

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—Counsel for the city of Atlanta today prepared to assail constitutionality of the Guffey soft coal act in arguments before the supreme court.

Contending that the law is "arbitrary and one-sided," the city attacked both the general price-fixing power in the law and the right of the federal government to fix prices on coal bought by a city.

Government lawyers hoped to obtain dismissal of the appeal on the ground that the court lacks jurisdiction and thus temporarily avoid the necessity of the court passing on the constitutional question. They asserted that the suit is premature since prices have not been fixed, and also contended that a consumer has no right to attack government price fixing.

SEVEN COUNTIES SEND TEACHERS TO CONVENTION

the retirement act and the tenure act as concrete examples of what had been done.

Dr. Alfred P. Haake, now of the National Manufacturers' Association, was the first speaker of length. Dr. Haake is an economist who has the happy faculty of presenting what might be otherwise dry facts in an interesting fashion.

Democracy and Education

"Can Democracy Be Saved By Education" was his theme and in it he discussed the laws of economics, some fallacious doctrine that has developed in late years and the duty of the educators towards their own country. "Education can save democracy," said Dr. Haake, "but it can also destroy it. Education developed Adolf Hitler from a fair paper hanger to a point where he is considered almost God by millions of people."

"Premise Is Wrong"

"Mussolini has said that he does not like democracies because they do not spread the wealth where it belongs. His premise is wrong as is the premise of many Americans. They believe that the majority of net income of industries goes to the owners. Actually it does not and a survey by Daniel Roper, late secretary of commerce, shows that more than 84 per cent of all net income goes to labor.

"Wars do not save democracies. Economic conditions are responsible where democracies have been destroyed. One difficulty we have is that people take the personality of a man in place of the things he represents. Audiences are swayed by voices, by gestures and by promises not by cold economic law.

"Should Stay Out"

"So far as the present difficulty overseas is concerned I say we should stay out of it. The neutrality act should be amended so that all nations may buy from us but at their own risk. Business does not want wars for wars destroy economic structures. Here in America we would not be as good a position so far as our reserves are concerned as we were in 1917, should we enter any war."

Dr. Haake's address was well presented and warmly received. He has a platform personality that puts over his message of economics in an intelligent, interesting fashion.

Humorist Speaks

He was followed by Dr. James E. Gheen, humorist of New York City, who spoke on "Do You Want What You Need". Billed as a humorist, Dr. Gheen proved up to his billing but sandwiched in between his sallies was a lot of common sense and sound logic. Had a laugh meter been installed it would have shown more laughs to the minute than any speaker the convention has ever had.

Following Dr. Gheen a short business session was held. Nominations for officers resulted in the following: President, Theo. Fullerton, of Punxsutawney, and Mrs. Olive L. Hammond, of Ford City.

First vice president, Lawrence D. Smith, of Beaver Falls, the retiring president.

Second vice president, Dr. Charles C. Platt, Grove City.

Secretary, Gilbert Hoyt, Clarion.

Treasurer, James W. Earley, Armstrong county.

Executive committee, two to elect, Mary E. Vandivort, New Castle; Jay G. Rudolph, Union township; Mrs. Stella Madden, Sharon; Clara Bartley, Butler.

Representative to the state council of the P. S. E. A., Dr. Roy Wiley, Butler. For those offices having only one candidate the secretary was instructed to cast the ballot.

Resolutions Committee

The report of the resolutions committee contained the usual appreciation of co-operation and services. The report expresses the appreciation of the district for the work of Dr. Lester K. Ade, former state suerintendent of public instruction and pledges co-operation to the new superintendent, Dr. Francis B. Haas.

The report recommends that the executive committee give attention to the planning of the programs for the various sections and departments, 20 of them, to the end that some consolidation may be made in future conventions.

The report recommends that a house of delegates be formed for the transaction of business, similar to the plan of the P. S. E. A.

It is recommended that the state give more aid to fourth class districts in order that salaries of teachers in that class be increased. It also recommends that the state broaden its tax base in order that more grants of money may be made to education in the state.

Another recommendation would make it mandatory upon teachers to have their master of arts degree before being certified permanently as teachers. This would add one year to the present four years of college preparation.

Joint Orchestras

The closing event of the day was the presentation of the joint district orchestra, under various directors. This was an inspiration period. The best orchestral musicians from the entire district had been gathered together for this concert, and it was well done. The quality of the orchestra is a tribute to the work of the directors of the mid-western district. The program follows:

Selection, "Firml Favorites ..... Grofe
Philip Kester, Punxsutawney, Director
Cornet Solo, "Carnival of Venice" ..... Staigers
Jack Weitzel, Aliquippa
"Procession of the Sardar" ..... Ippilitow
Jack Brammer, Beaver, Director

Exhibits

In the basement of the Cathedral are the commercial and school exhibits. Everything from a pencil up to a multigraph machine is on display, books, maps, art supplies—everything used in a school. One most interesting display is that of the adjustment classes of the New Castle schools. Pupils not capable of absorbing academic instruction have been trained to use their hands, and their work is surprisingly well done.

Senator Clark Tonight

Many luncheons of sections were held at noon today, a number of dinners are planned for tonight, and this afternoon sectional and departmental meetings are being held in the Cathedral, in the senior high school, in the George Washington junior high school and a number of churches.

Tonight's program is rich in promise. U. S. Senator Bennet Champ Clark is the main speaker, and his address should be well worth while. President Lawrence D. Smith will preside, officers will be elected and the district chorus will present a program.

The convention is of one day's duration, but in that one day is packed a lot of material that will be of use to the teachers of this district in the days to come.

Injuries Fatal To Motorcyclist

Thomas Evans Dies In Hospital Of Injuries Received Early Last Saturday

Injuries sustained early Saturday morning, when the motorcycle which he was riding crashed into an automobile on the West Pittsburg road, near the B. and O. roundhouse, resulted in the death of Thomas Evans, aged 24, of 313 Preston avenue, at 5:25 p. m. Thursday, in the New Castle hospital, where he had been undergoing treatment.

It was found that Evans had sustained a laceration of the brain, in addition to a broken left arm and leg. He never regained consciousness following the accident, it was stated at the hospital.

According to Pennsylvania Motor Police who investigated the circumstances, Evans' motorcycle skidded on a curve, the pavement being wet from a shower, and went off the highway, crashing into a parked car belonging to a B. and O. employe.

Coroner Byers, who was notified, pronounced Evans' death as accidental.

The deceased was born in New Castle June 7, 1915, son of Thomas and Minnie Evans. He was a mechanic by occupation. Surviving are his wife, Rosalyn Passeretti Evans, one daughter, Ethel Mae, his mother, Mrs. Minnie Engle, and one sister, Mrs. Warren Black, this city.

Services will be conducted from the Ritchie funeral home Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, and interment will be in Greenwood cemetery.

Young Roosevelt And Broadcasting Head In Argument

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—The opinions of the National Association of Broadcasters and Elliott Roosevelt, son of the president, were deadlocked today on the question of what constitutes "censorship" in radio.

On October 7, Roosevelt announced by radio that he would disregard a recently promulgated NAB code barring injection into new broadcasts of personal opinions on public controversial matters.

On October 13, Neville Miller, president of the NAB, wrote Theodore W. Streibert, vice-president of the Mutual Broadcasting System, over which Roosevelt broadcasts a commercially-sponsored news commentator's program, calling attention to Roosevelt's October 7 broadcast.

"I am of the opinion that Elliott Roosevelt in his broadcast did violate the code, and I am therefore bringing the matter to your immediate attention," Miller wrote.

Crew Of Ship Faces Charges

Passengers On Refugee Ship Claim Crew Members Belligerent

RIVAL UNIONS IN CREW AT ODDS

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—The insolence of stewards and inefficient service aboard the American liner Acadia was denounced so strongly today by many of the ship's 520 passengers, 482 of them Americans, that the U. S. maritime commission launched an immediate investigation.

When the refugee ship docked last night an indignant group of passengers stepped ashore and voiced stories of numerous fist fights among crew members. Service was so inadequate that mothers with small babies were forced to prepare their own food in the galley, according to William E. Channing, of Lenox, Mass., a Harvard student who had been doing research work abroad.

Service Terrible.

"The service was simply terrible," he declared. "Mothers with small babies had the greatest difficulty getting the proper food. Some of them finally had to go to the galley themselves to prepare the babies' food. At first the stewards tried to keep them out of the galley but they finally got in.

The Acadia, an eastern steamship liner under charter of the U. S. lines, experienced the hurricane which battered the S. S. President Harding Tuesday but passengers avoided discussion of it in their denunciation of the manner in which they were treated. Admitting the crew was insolent at times and the service bad, many officers of the liner blamed the shortcomings on union disputes among the crew. Some of them related that members of the rival unions, the CIO-affiliated national maritime union and the International Seamen's union of the A. F. of L. engaged in a dozen fist fights. In addition, more than half of the 136 stewards aboard were negroes making their first voyage.

Used Abusive Language

A veteran of 20 Atlantic crossings, Miss Edna McDonough of New York charged that the stewards used abusive language and refused to clean dining tables.

Channing also told of hearing orders of head stewards being countermaned by union delegates.

One officer said that he had several fellow-officers had been threatened when they attempted to maintain discipline. Another claimed that seamen used abusive language in addressing Cap. Robert H. Allen but the latter denied it.

Captain Allen described Tuesday's storm—a "lost hurricane—as the worst he had experienced in 30 years at sea. During a five-hour blow he estimated that the wind velocity reached as high as 150 miles an hour at times.

Fourteen crew members and eight passengers were injured, none seriously, during the gale.

IMPROPER FEEDING MAY CAUSE FEATHER PICKING

Feather picking may become a problem in turkey raising, particularly when the birds are grown in confinement. It is more likely to occur when birds are eight to twenty weeks old.

When the feathers are picked, the skin is marred, feather growth is stunted, and "blue backs" may result on some birds. If the birds are being picked continuously during the growing period, their rate of growth usually is reduced. Many of the pin feathers are killed when the feather fluid escapes. The roots or stubs of these destroyed feathers remain in the feather follicles, causing the skin to become scurfy rough and lacking in bloom.

Feather picking may result from the birds wiping their beaks on the feathers and from insufficient roughage or fiber in the ration. Beak wiping can be reduced by mixing mashes that do not become too sticky. Coarse grinding of grains used in the mash reduces stickiness. It also helps to feed mash in pellet form and to have wire fencing near the feeders on which the birds can wipe their beaks.

Whole oats and barley, alfalfa, clover, and soybean hay, and greens can be used to help control picking caused by a shortage of roughage in the ration.

FEEDING BEES IN FALL TO PREVENT DYSENTERY

If bees are to be taken through the winter in a strong, healthy condition, arrangements must be made in the fall to provide an adequate supply of food for cold, winter days.

The bees in a one-story hive will consume approximately 10 pounds of sugar in the form of a thick syrup during the winter. If combs of buckwheat or clover honey are available, they may replace sugar as winter feed for the bees. Each colony requires the equivalent of seven full frames of money.

The quality of the honey stored during the summer and fall generally is not satisfactory for use in winter feeding. When low quality honey is fed bees during a severe winter, dysentery losses usually are heavy. This makes it desirable to feed a thick sugar syrup as a preventative against dysentery regardless of the amount of honey in the hive.

Feeding is usually begun after the first killing frost, but not until after brood rearing has stopped. Most beekeepers feed their bees during October. The usual practice is to mix 2½ parts by volume of white granulated sugar with 1 part by volume of water. This is heated, but not boiled, until all the sugar is dissolved. It is not placed before the bees until it has had a chance to cool.

TOO LATE GRAZING INJURES PASTURES

Late grazing of pastures is like "robbing Peter to pay Paul."

Under Lawrence County conditions, pastures which are grazed closely so late in the season that they have no chance to recover may suffer severely during the winter. Clover is likely to be most seriously affected. Next year's pasturage will be poorer as the result of too late grazing, in spite of treatments of lime, phosphate and manure."

Two to three inches of growth on the pasture is sufficient to insure a supply of food reserves in the roots to carry the sod safely through the winter. Just as pasture grasses and clovers suffer from late grazing, so do alfalfa and clover suffer from too late clipping. The growth that is covered with snow is not lost. It is temporarily "stored" for next year. It will yield big returns in a sod that will "carry through" a dry spell better. This particularly is true following a severe drough such as much of Pennsylvania experienced this year.

Drouth-stricken pastures will revive better if given a light covering of manure this fall. Reinforce the manure with superphosphate at the rate of 40 pounds per ton. Fall is also a good time to scatter the droppings which have mellowed with the fall rains. It will improve next year's grazing.

APPLES NEED PROPER STORAGE CONDITIONS

Proper control of temperature, humidity and ventilation are the three most important factors in the storage of apples.

The most difficult problem under ordinary storage conditions is to cool fruit quickly. Storage life of the fruit is reduced by high temperatures. When apples are picked in warm weather, it is advisable to place them in crates or baskets in the shade, allow them to cool overnight, and then place them in storage early next morning. This practice is also desirable for fruit to be kept in cold storage.

Adequate ventilation hastens cooling in the storage room. Large doors at each end of the room facilitate free movement of air. It is best to stack the fruit on a slatted false floor at least six inches above storage floor. Leave six to twelve inches between the stacks and side walls, and two feet between the top of the stacks and the ceiling. This increases the hapidity of cooling.

Continuous ventilation, except during extreme hot or cold outdoor temperatures, is considered best. Freezing temperatures must be guarded against. The same holds true for outside temperatures higher than in the center of the stacks.

Relative humidity must be carefully controlled to prevent shriveling. With the temperature at 31 to 32 degrees, 85 per cent relative humidity usually is satisfactory. Under the more common storage conditions, 90 per cent humidity is preferable. When equipment is not available for checking relative humidity, the grower can inspect his fruit frequently for signs of wilting. Even slight shriveling will indicate the need for sprinkling floors and walls frequently.

APPEARANCE ONLY ONE REQUISITE FOR RANGE

Which electric range shall I choose is a question uppermost in the minds of homemakers buying new electrical equipment for the kitchen. Such a purchase means the output of a considerable sum of money and the consumer wants to get the best for the money he has to invest, Miss Julia Markle, home economics extension representative of Lawrence County, believes.

If the consumer's knowledge of the construction and operation of electric ranges is somewhat meager, it is wise to choose a range manufactured and sold by firms whose products have been satisfactorily tested by the public. In addition, after the purchase has been made the retail dealer should be able to give good service and to replace parts without delay.

A range approved by the National Board of Fire Underwriters indicates that it has met their requirements for safety.

At first glance one stove may seem to be as well constructed as another, but upon examination may show distinct variations, Miss Markle points out. A strong under-frame well braced across the corners is important. Well-rounded and tightly fitted joints and seams will prevent grease from collecting and make cleaning easier. Any porcelain enamel finish should be smooth, glossy, and free from dents, ripples, and hair lines. Enamel-lined ovens may increase preheating costs, but they are easier to clean than metal ones.

Another factor that affects the cost of using an electric oven is the amount and kind of insulation used in the oven walls. A well insulated oven retains heat longer than a poorly insulated one. A closely fitted oven door prevents uneven baking and the escape of heat. It is wise to have two heating units, an upper and lower one, she adds.

The surface heating units may be one of several types, Miss Markle continues. The open ones supply heat more quickly and therefore the cost of operation is less. Dirt collects more easily in the open coils making them harder to keep clean and there is danger of short circuiting the heating coils.

Closed units are easy to clean and the danger of short circuiting is reduced. If cooking utensils with bases broad enough to cover the units are used, the cost of operation may be decreased.

TIPS ON MEAT COOKERY

Contrary to common opinion, the fell or thin paperlike membrane covering the lamb carcass does not affect the flavor, according to extension nutritionists at the Pennsylvania State College. It prevents the meat from drying out during storage and holds in the juices when meat is being roasted.

Babson Is Amazed At Speed Of Upturn In Business Of Nation

By ROGER W. BABSON
(Copyright, 1939, Publishers Financial Bureau)

BABSON PARK, Mass., Oct. 20.—Business this month is the best for any October in ten years. The United States has experienced one of the most sensational boomlets in its history in the last two months. Figures gathered from all over the country, which I found on my desk on my return from the Far East, tell a spectacular story. Business is now 22 per cent above a year ago and within two per cent of the 1937 peak!

BABSON

I can hardly believe that business has soared so rapidly. Yet, the figures which I have at hand do not lie. They show that textile mills, automobile factories, machine tool shops, steel mills, railroads, power plants, lumber camps and shipyards are bristling with activity. When I sailed out of the Golden Gate on August 25, the temperature of business was 97 degrees according to my Babsonchart. Today it is 112 degrees compared with the 1937 high of 114 degrees and the 1929 all-time peak of 122 degrees.

Freight Gains Spectacular

Here are the facts concerning the nation's leading industries:

(1) Textiles: Cotton mills have boosted schedules 15 per cent in the past eight weeks. Woolen factories are operating day and night. The rayon industry has shot ahead. The textile industry as a whole, while not the most active of the nation's monster businesses, is flirting with its 1937 highs.

(2) Railroads: A spectacular increase has taken place in railroad traffic. Weekly freight car loadings have jumped to 835,000 from 680,000 in the Labor Day week. With the exception of one or two weeks in 1937, railroad traffic is the highest since the lush days of a decade ago. This tremendous increase in the transportation of goods simply means that there has been a huge gain in the amount of business being transacted.

(3) Automobiles: This is normally the season when automobile assembly lines speed up, so the rise in weekly motor output from 12,000 cars before Labor Day to around 90,000 at present breaks no records. New car sales are reported to be exceptionally good and motor-makers are boosting their production schedules faster than is customary.

(4) Building: Latest figures on home building show a splendid gain over the faltering figures of the late summer and a 30 per cent step-up over a year ago. Moreover, the building upswing has injected new life into the lumber camps, where orders are running far ahead of both the "cut" and shipments.

Sharpest Steel Rise in History

(5) Steel: Activity in this industry is accurately measured by the weekly rate of operations. The sharpest rise in steel operations in history has taken place since August! Starting at around 60 per cent of capacity in the Labor Day week, they have skyrocketed to around 90 per cent—an increase of 30 points in less than two months! Reports indicate that thousands of workers have returned to their jobs in the steel towns.

(6) Coal. For two years the soft coal industry has been "in the doghouse". Ever since the 1937 boom back-fired, the coal mines have been limping along at about 60 per cent of normal. Within six short weeks, daily coal output has caromed up 25 per cent. The recent report stating that the first barge load of coal sent to Europe in 12 years has just left the United States provides a clue as to the war's effect on this industry.

(7) Mining: Copper sales in September were the highest on record. Metal prices have been marked up 25 to 30 per cent. Operations at the copper, zinc, lead, iron and other mines are marching toward the 1937 levels. Meanwhile, activity in the petroleum industry as a whole is at an all-time high.

Utilities Smash All Records

(8) Utilities: The measure of activity in the electric industry is the weekly power consumption figure reported in the newspapers. Readers who follow this total know that more electric power is being used today than at any time in the history of the country! In almost every week since Labor Day, consumption of electricity has set a new all-time peak.

(9) Machine Tools: The machinery and machine tool industry is small compared with such giants as building, railroads and steel. Nevertheless, it is a vital barometer of activity in the labyrinth of industries such as cutlery, business machines, aviation, radio, hardware, railroad equipment and the like. Hence, it is very encouraging to learn that machine tool orders in recent weeks have smashed all previous records!

Opinions Divided On Trend.

This is the most bullish report on American business that I have been able to write for two years. There is no forecasting in what I have said above. All statements are facts concerning what has happened. Whether or not activity can continue at the present pace is another question and one which is too difficult to answer right now. Some observers believe that this boom was touched off by the war and will fold up like an accordion if hostilities are suddenly halted. Others insist that the tremendous step-up in industrial activity was already under way this summer and would have taken place, though less rapidly, war or no war.

I have not had time yet to study the situation and take any position on this question. Perhaps the answer is a middle-ground—somewhere between the above two views. However, unless retailers boost their merchandising efforts and keep their cash registers clanging, the industrial boom will peter out. In order to maintain our current pace, raw materials and goods which have been purchased in anticipation of higher war prices, must move along to the consumer so that new orders can be placed with manufacturers and raw material suppliers. A few weeks should tell the story.

NEW CASTLE--WASHINGTON PLAY HERE TONIGHT

Visitors Hope To Avenge Defeat By Topping 'Hurricane'

New Castle High "Red Hurricane" Undergoes Change For Game Tonight; Gilboy Moved From Left Guard To Quarterback; Jerry Gets Guard Post; Roberts And Cenname Are Not Sure Of Starting Due To Injuries; Washington Will Send Big Team Here; Kickoff Occurs at 8 o'clock.

NIGHT football in the city of New Castle for the '39 season will come to an end this evening when New Castle high's big "Red Hurricane" tackles a fast Washington high eleven. The kickoff is at 8 o'clock. This is the fourth Class AA conference game for the locals. The New Castle team will take the field tonight somewhat crippled. There will be some new faces in the starting lineup, Head Coach Phil Bridenbaugh intimated.

Hope To Start Streak

New Castle high far from discouraged at the loss to Johnstown, will strive hard tonight to get started on another winning streak. Washington high, despite a few reverses this year, will not be held lightly by the locals. Teams that play New Castle have a knack of doing better than at any other time. They all primed for the "Red Hurricane."

Washington high would like very much to atone for that 7 to 6 defeat slapped on them last year at Washington. That game was a heartbreaker for the "Little Presidents." They really thought that it was their year to beat the Castles.

Baptism For Gilboy

Tommy Gilboy, the lad who has been playing a lot of fine football at left guard and doing the punting besides, will get his baptism as a backfield man tonight, holding down the quarterback job that Freddy McKee was forced to vacate by an injured hand. Gilboy is fast and shifty and will no doubt make a fine blocker for Roberts, Ciazza, Gender and Lauro.

Many a fine player has been discovered by a change from the line to the backfield or vice-versa. It may be that Gilboy is a natural in the backfield and if he is, will prove his worth and will justify the change that Head Coach Phil Bridenbaugh is making.

Jerry Gets Guard Post

Don Jerry, son of the famous marathon runner, Frank Jerry, has worked hard all year, both at camp and at the stadium every day and has been rewarded with a starting post at left guard. He got his first chance in the game last Saturday with Johnstown high and did a swell job. He is expected to become a valuable man for the team the rest of the year. Jerry is a junior this year, which means that he will have another year on the team and this doesn't make the coaches one bit sorry.

Another possible new face in the starting lineup is Joe Goclano of Lawrence street, who is trying for an end job this year and has impressed the coaches so much that it would not surprise the writer shold the youngster be at either end tonight.

Roberts May Not Start

Larry "Streak" Roberts, the colored speedster, may not start the game tonight, being somewhat bunged up from the severe tackling of the Johnstown boys last week. If Roberts is not in shape to start, it will be Joe Gender the general utility man who will get the left-half back call. Gender has also been used at quarterback and does a nice job at both spots.

Lindy Lauro's foot is still bothering him, it was noticeable in the Johnstown game that Lindy had difficulty in getting his customary power drives started no doubt due to his ailing foot. He will start the game however, but may get some rest if the score gets to big, and if he does it will more than likely be "Simber" Izzo from Mahoningtown who will take his place.

Band Will Provide Music

The New Castle band will have the field all to themselves tonight, it is not generally believed that Washington will send their band here tonight for the game. Professor Joe Replogle has worked up several new "stunts" for the game. The band will march to the stadium by way of East Washington street to Junior High street and down to the south gate of the stadium. The gates will open at 7 o'clock. In the event of good weather there will no doubt be a fine crowd on hand.

Do you want ALL-WINTER RADIATOR PROTECTION FOR ONLY $1.50?

HERE'S THE WAY many car owners do it every year! They put in a couple of quarts of Du Pont "Zerone" early in the season for protection against rusting and the sudden cold snaps they know will come.

When winter gets down to real business, they add enough "Zerone" to protect them to lower temperatures. A total of six quarts, put in as needed, can protect a car with an average size cooling system for the entire winter. And six quarts of "Zerone" cost only $1.50! Just one gallon of "Zerone" protects an average size cooling system (15 quarts) to 1°. Five quarts would protect it to −12°; six quarts to −27°!

You may need a little more or less, depending on the condition and capacity of your car radiator and the severity of winter in your neighborhood. But the unusual efficiency of Du Pont "Zerone" will save you real money.

PROTECTS AGAINST RUST AND CORROSION

"Zerone" in a clean cooling system prevents rust and corrosion, which reduce operating efficiency. It gives better dissipation of engine heat, avoids power losses. Protect your car with "Zerone" this very day! Remember, it's only $1.00 a gallon, 25¢ a quart.

Franklin High Defeats Sharon

Franklin High Remains Only Undefeated Team In County, Win 13 To 0

GENO PAIGE IS STAR OF GAME

Ben Franklin High school football team is the only undefeated team in Lawrence County—believe it or not—having taken the measure on Friday of Sharon Junior High at the Sharon High field 13 to 0 with Geno Paige the star of the game, scoring both of the Franklin touchdowns.

Paige's first touchdown was in the first period on a run of 20 yards through the Sharon team. In the third period he galloped 25 yards through a broken field for his second marker. He converted one touchdown on a line buck.

Good Blocking

Augustine and Rozzi teamed with Paige to run up 12 first downs to one for Sharon. The Franklin second team played most of the third period and all of the fourth period and turned in a swell job outplaying the Sharon team all the way. Rozzi made two nice runs of 45 and 25 yards.

Standouts in the Franklin line were—Sisco, Parillo and Robinson, the latter who becomes ineligible due to age next week. T. Joseph blocking that Franklin High has had this year.

Al Simmons Is Given Release By Cincinnati

(International News Service)

CINCINNATI, Oct. 20.—Given his unconditional release by the Reds, Al Simmons, one-time major league slugger who played in both circuits, today apparently was headed for baseball oblivion unless he can connect with a minor league club.

Simmons, who played in one world series game with the Reds and got a slice of the purse, came to Cincinnati from the Boston Bees on August 31. His release indicated the Reds are seeking younger talent in the outfield where Vince Di Maggio, brother of jolting Joe of the Yanks, has yet to be given a thorough try-out.

During his 16 years in the majors, Simmons earned the reputation of a "money player". In his prime he was a heavy hitter and one of Connie Mack's mainstays on the Athletics.

Weekly pig-skinning:— With a sparkling 349 batting average (68 rights and 13 wrong, exclusive of 9 ties) we're in mid-season shape for another gruelling pigskin parade. And so, without further ado, off to Yogi-land and back with tomorrow's winners——maybe

Pitt-Duquesne, a pair of undefeated and untied elevens, square off in the Smoky Town. After that Panther victory over Duke, how could any sane person pick against Pitt, I ask you?....Carnegie Tech faces two foes, N. Y. U. and Old Man Jinx. Kern's machine is well prepared to score a double triumph and get the nod. It may be a photo-finish affair....

The Penn-Harvard clash shapes up as a toss-up, due mainly to Harvard's 61-0 track meet score against Chicago and Penn's poor showing last week. On a hunch that the Quakers will find their bearings—Penn—Princeton shapes up a whisker or two better than Columbia.... You can mark down Cornell as one of the "beauties" of the season. Penn State is coming up but is still a few paces behind the Ithicans....

Georgetown carries a bit too much amunition for Busknell....Auburn fooled everybody last week. They won't fool me again, the Plainsman over Manhattan....Boston U. has a tea party with Upsala.... Clemson handily over South Carolina....Catholic U. too much for West Virginia Wesleyan....

Those lucky Irish draw the spotlight in Cleveland, facing the Navy Middies. If those stories are true regarding Werner and Wood, and I believe they are, Notre Dame can leave her "lucky piece" at home, for she won't need it....Minnesota is on its way up while Ohio State has been up. A slight edge to the Buckeyes

Tennessee-Alabama top the bill of fare down South. The Vols are Rose Bowl bound and I like to see who is going to stop them. Alabama? I doubt it very much. It may be close, however. Fred Swan's Temple crew has started clicking Florida victory over Boston College left a sour taste. Temple....Tulane-North Carolina looms as the closest game on the books. Tulane draws the ring....

Texas A & M must have something when you stop to look at that 33-7 margin over Villanova. The Porkers get the vote over Texas Christian...

Colgate has batting practice, St. Lawrence being the foe....Dartmouth to subdue Lafayette....Detroit to kayo North Carolina State ....If Duke doesn't fumble too much, the Blue Devils may defeat Syracuse by an astounding margin....Holy Cross, which has fully recuperated from that L. S. U. trimming, draws a vote over Brown ....Georgia Tech to squash Vanderbilt....Indiana to overpower Illinois.....

Kentucky has one of the strongest scoring machines in the nation as Georgia will attest to after Saturday's meeting....Louisiana State more than an edge over Loyola (La.)....The scorers may need an adding machine to count Tom Harmon's points tomorrow. Michigan can write its own ticket against Chicago....Mississippi's high scoring machine to pile up another, lopsided victory, St. Louis being the victim.....

Mississippi State with ease over S. W. Tenn...Missouri an edge over Kansas State: ditto for Nebraska over Baylor....I think Northwestern has found the winning combination. The Wildcats to hang another loss on Wisconsin....Oklahoma with plenty to spare over weak Kansas....Oregon to pin back Gonzaga and Oregon State to trip Washington's Huskies.....

Purdue should breeze through Michigan State....That great Rice team a sure winner over Sam Houston....St. Mary's California to maintain its unsoiled slate, Santa Clara being the opponent....Southern Methodist's aerial maneuvers a trifle too much for Marquette.... Tulsa has an edge over demoralized Centennary....U. C. L. A. to dispose of Montana.....

Utah gets the call over Idaho V. M. I., good enough to topple Vanderbilt should have what it takes to sidetrack Virginia....V. P. Drake over Iowa State....Harvey Harmon's Rutgers team will be at full strength for the first time this year and should handle Maryland ....Texas Tech over New Mexico....

To what promises to be one of the most thrilling engagements in years, Geneva College a squeaky vote over Westminster....Grove City should spill Allegheny, everybody else has....Slippery Rock has a tough one but should keep its record clean. Y. M. C. A. Reports Volley Ball Spurt

Volley ball promises to become one of the most popular sports at the Young Men's Christian Association this season. Indications are that large leagues of the past two years will be exceeded in size this year.

Old recruits and newcomers were signing volley ball playing applications at the "Y" today, Physical Director William Winter reported. He said last year 50 were in the league competition.

The league is to play Tuesdays and Thursdays at 7 p. m. A beginners' class in volley ball will meet Wednesday evenings.

"Many new men seem interested this season," Physical Director Winter commented. "and it looks like volley ball will be a preferred sport to other things."

MIKE JACOBS SAYS BAER AND GALENTO HAVE NOT SIGNED

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—Fight Promoter Mike Jacobs Thursday denied that Max Baer and Tony Galento had been signed to fight in Chicago early next year but admitted that such a fight might be arranged. He also said that he knew nothing of Joe Louis signing for nine exhibition bouts next month.

"The fact is," said Jacobs, "that I have been in contact with Chicago people regarding a Baer-Galento fight but I am trying to bring the bout here. I may reach a decision on this and the proposed Louis exhibition tour later in the day."

College Grid Teams To Risk Perfect Slates

Pitt And Duquesne Game Headlines In This District On Saturday

NOTRE DAME TO PLAY NAVY ELEVEN

By LAWTON CARVER
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—Widely esteemed for their excellence up to now, some of the major football teams finally have reached the end of their tenure as members of the select unbeaten and untied group. Specifically, they will get their ears knocked off tomorrow, as outstanding features of the day's schedule will include clashes between high-riding elevens with perfect records. There also will be some shifting of conference standings and, all in all, a brisk increase in the volume of gloom hovering over some of the gridirons as the football season thus bangs its way down to the half-way mark.

Pitt Vs. Duquesne

In the East clean slates will be matched by Pittsburgh-Duquesne, Penn-Harvard and Cornell-Penn State. We like Pitt, Penn and Cornell and also Carnegie Tech and its perfect record over once-beaten New York university. As long as we are helping ourselves we also will take Temple over Boston College, Holy Cross over Brown, Army over Yale, Columbia over Princeton, Auburn over Manhattan and, of course, Colgate over St. Lawrence and Dartmouth over Lafayette. The latter two are breathers for the favored elevens.

Down South they will stage some of the big fireworks of the day when Tennessee and Alabama of the Southeastern Conference bring perfect records against each other in a battle that may be another step toward the Rose Bowl for the winner. Tennessee is unscored on in three starts against minor opposition. Alabama gave up a touchdown in nosing out Fordham. Tennessee hereby is picked, with no guarantee attached.

Tech Vs. Vanderbilt

In another major engagement in Dixie, Tulane, Southeastern Conference contender and winner of three straight, meets North Carolina, Southern Conference leader, winner of four straight, piler-upper of 113 points and under-dog in this game. But we look for an upset—a North Carolina victory.

Mississippi and Kentucky, other unbeaten southeastern teams, should beat St. Louis and Georgia, respectively, while Georgia Tech should take Vanderbilt. Mississippi State is favored over Southwestern, Duke over Syracuse in an intersectional tussle at Durham, N. C., and Louisiana State over Loyola.

Irish Vs. Navy

Unbeaten Notre Dame should be able to come through against once-tied Navy at Cleveland in a mid-west feature, while Ohio State's tie for leadership in the Big Ten faces a definite threat from Minnesota, although the Buckeyes should come through. Michigan should remain among the unbeaten against Chicago, while Indiana figures to stay in the race by taking Illinois, and the best you can figure for Northwestern and Wisconsin is a deadlock. Purdue figures over Michigan State, and Detroit should romp over North Carolina State in an intersectional tussle.

With Oregon, Pacific Coast Conference leader, meeting little Gonzaga, the feature attractions on the coast will find California probably beating Washington State and Oregon State probably taking Washington.

Here is a vote for unbeaten Baylor of the southwest over Nebraska, and others for S. M. U. over Marquette, Texas over Arkansas, the Texas Aggies over T. C. U., Oklahoma over Kansas and Missouri over Kansas State.

Grovers Weakened For Allegheny Game

Annual Homecoming Day Event At Grove City On Saturday Afternoon

(Special To The News)

GROVE CITY, Oct. 20.—Big Jim Anderson, four-year Crimson football star, and Howard Bish, regular guard, are nursing injuries that will keep them on the bench Saturday, when Grove City and Allegheny meet here in the 45th renewal of a gridiron rivalry that was launched in 1899. The game will be staged before a large homecoming day crowd.

The loss of Anderson will be a severe blow to the Grovers, as he has been the most consistent ground-gainer for the past three years. A leg-bruise received in the Geneva game has not responded to treatment, and he has not been in uniform this week. Weber, a sophomore, will be at quarterback. An ankle injury will keep Howard Bish out of action, and Cordingley will get the call.

Probable line-ups for the Grove City-Allegheny game:

Grove City.		Allegheny.
Boose	L.E.	Lemmo
De Prima	L.T.	Scarpitti
Bricker	L.G.	Long
Bovard	C.	Saylor
Cordingley	R.G.	Burkett
James	R.T.	Barrett
Liggett	R.E.	Hays
Weber	Q.B.	Cook
Patterson	L.H.	Hartwel
Graham	R.H.	McKnight
Taylor	F.B.	Marasco

Believe Pirates Will Be Fighting For 1940 Pennant

Believe That Frankie Frisch Will Have Championship Team At Pittsburgh

PRO-COLLEGE ARGUMENT RAGES

By LAWTON CARVER
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—Along the sports front—that old argument as to whether collegians play better football than their easn-and-carry brethren of the professional ranks is on again. . . . Coach Steve Owen of the New York Giants rises to take exception to what may be interpreted as inferential aspersions cast by Coach Wallace Wade, of Duke, in a magazine article . . . "The trouble with Wade is he probably hasn't seen a professional game in 10 years from the way he writes," said Owen. . . . "What Wade doesn't seem to know is that every National league club has 30 men ranging from good to better and can substitute without weakening the team. . . ." Perhaps Wade is only up to some of his customary needling.

Football is a young man's game, a fact made obvious by the game to be played tomorrow night at Stockton, Cal., between the College of the Pacific, coached by Alonzo Stagg, and San Jose State, which has Glenn Warner as an advisory coach. . . . The aggregate age of the mentors is approximately a century and a quarter and they first clashed as coaches 32 years ago.

Watch Pirates

"Watch the Pittsburgh Pirates next season," is the word in baseball circles. . . . The Pirates have several rookies who were going good at the close of last season, an infield that is rated as excellent, a potentially good pitching staff and one of the best managers in the business in Frankie Frisch. . . Incredible as it may sound, you also hear "watch those Brooklyn Dodgers who were coming at the close of last season."

The American league's most valuable player award will be announced next Wednesday, but why bother when there can be only one Joe DiMaggio? . . . There may have been better ball players in the past, but he will do for now and for another 10 years.

Baer vs. Galento

A Tony Galento-Max Baer fight at Chicago in January is being steamed up, but Manager Joe Jacobs still is inclined to holdout until next summer and put his tiger man in with Champion Joe Louis again . . . Galento cuts so easily that Baer might eliminate him from a return crack at the title. . . . Bob Pastor, Louis' last victim, will fight again on December 15, his opponent to be Billy Conn, if negotiations go through as planned, this to be Conn's second start among the heavies . . . In his debut he stopped Gus Dorazio.

Ozzie Simmons, the former all-America at Iowa State and now with the Paterson Panthers, is the outstanding star of the professional American Association. . . . The Olympic games, slated for Finland, haven't been called off but undoubtedly will be, and a modified version may be staged in South America. . . If Tony Canzoneri loses to Al Davis at Madison Square Garden on November 1. He will retire from the ring, he promises, which leads to the question as to how many times a guy has to retire before it sticks?

Eight Churches Are Represented At "Y" Meeting

Next Meeting Of New Castle Church Basketball League Is Monday, October 30

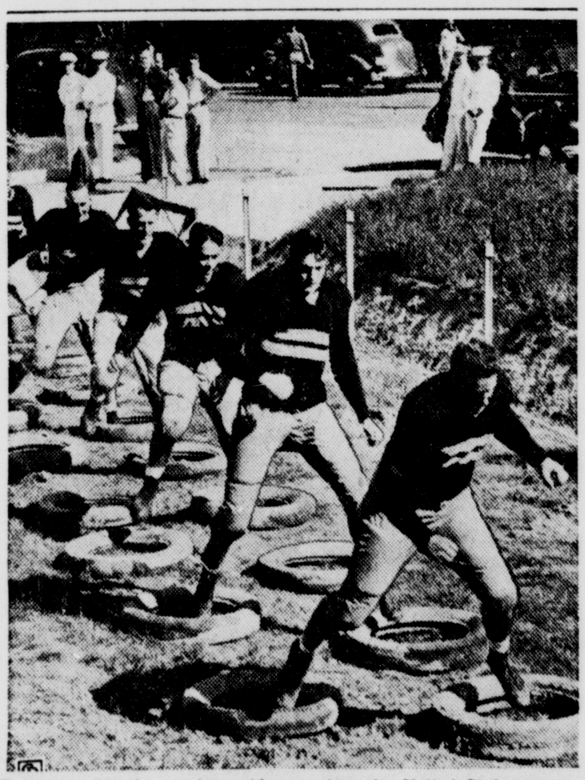

Eight New Castle churches were represented by official representatives with proper credentials Wednesday night at the "Y". The next meeting will be held on Monday, October 30. At this meeting all of last year's teams will have to present their credentials and have adult representation to hold their franchise in the league.

New teams wanting in the league this year are Wesley M. E. and St. Pauls, who were represented at the meeting Wednesday night. St. Marys, St. Margarets, Croton M., First U. P. also would like to enter teams but did not have proper credentials at the meeting.

Contracts were given out to teams having proper credentials and announcements were made that practice sessions would be started the first week of November. From the outlook of this year's teams, A and AA leagues will combine their association but may play separate schedules. The new organization set up was explained and met with the hearty approval of the lay men present.

All those teams of last year who were not present at the meeting should contact the "Y" as soon as possible.

Part Of Ancient Fish Trap Dug Up In Boston District

(International News Service)

BOSTON, Sept. 13.—That the Charles river once flowed through what is now the exclusive Back Bay section of Boston was recalled as a result of finding of parts of an ancient fish weir, believed used by Indians more than 2,500 years ago, during excavations for the foundation of an office building

Officials of the company, for whom the excavations were being made and engineers in charge of operations, requested workers to take especial care in digging to prevent damage to other parts of the weir which they might find.

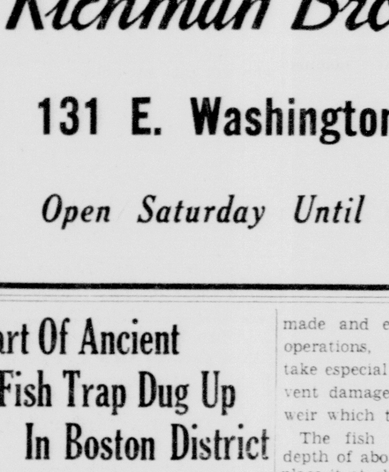

The fish trap was found at a depth of about 35 feet, which would place it at about what once was the bottom of the river.

Money To Loan

Can you set aside
$1.59 to $1.65 per week for a
$100 LOAN

That's actually all you need to pay off in full a $100 cash loan including all charges on a 18 month plan at Personal Finance Co. And we take no wage assignment.

● $1.59 a week on the average is all you need to set aside for every $100 borrowed on Personal's new "Special" loan plan of only 2½% per month on the first $100 and 2% per month on balances over $100. This plan is for persons with a steady income or salary sufficient to meet payments promptly, and a good credit record.

● For persons without established credit and employment ratings, or who wish to carry a loan larger than 8 to 12% of annual salary or income, Personal offers its "Regular" loan at 3% monthly on unpaid balances of 100 and less, and 2% monthly on unpaid balances over $100. Under this plan, setting aside just $1.65 a week will repay everything on a $100 loan in 18 months. Loans from $20 to $300.

Stock Market Range Narrow

Trading Volume Is Low During Morning Market Trading

By LESLIE GOULD
International News Service Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—The stock market drifted over a narrow and irregular range today, as trading volume dropped back to the low levels ruling early this week.

Steels were among the softest issues in early transactions but recovered a good portion of their declines before noon. Bethlehem was down a point at its low, then came back to within a fraction of last night's final quotation. U. S. Steel, off ¾ at one time to 6½, recovered to 77, while Crucible wiped out a first-hour fractional loss.

DuPont, Continental Can and American Locomotive were off a point or more before meeting support. Philip Morris gained as much on an independent move.

Elsewhere fractional changes were the rule. Chrysler, General Motors, Anaconda, Kennecott, General Electric, American Can and N. Y. Central were behind minus signs. Aviation shares added to yesterday's gains. Mail orders also were slightly higher.

Ellwood To Meet Midland Saturday

ELLWOOD CITY, Oct. 20.—One of the largest crowds of the season is expected to be on hand at Lincoln field Saturday afternoon to see what the astonishing Wolverines can do against Midland, 1938 Beaver Valley champs and 1939 double A flag contenders.

Last year Ellwood was said to have had its best football team in ten years and that crew with the outstanding Jones - Snare - Newton combination of backs fell before the Crucibles by a decisive score and a year before the same team handed the blue and wite a shellacking on Lincoln field. While the Ellwood stars of 1938 are gone, Midland has the same trio of backs to again face the Wolverines. Midland has decisively topped all their opponents this year and are rated as top-heavy favorites to win over the Ellwood machine. They have victories over Beaver, Rochester, Monaca, Aliquippa and New Brighton. Ellwood defeated Rochester and Monaca and have yet to face Aliquippa and New Brighton.

The blue and white are not daunted a whit by the impressive record of the Walters crew and if they display the fight and power they have against Butler, Rochester and Monaca, the champs will not find the game any "powder puff" affair. Midland will have a weight advantage of at least 10 pounds per man over the Ellwoodians. Harry and Dave Alton and Ordich are their renowned backs and their most effective play seems to be a quarterback sneak.

One thing in favor of the Wolverines is the recovery of all the players, which means that the various backs will be alternated on offensive and defensive plays.

The kickoff is slated for 2:30 p.m.

The lineup:

Ellwood		Midland
Powell	L.E.	Hunter

Mummers' Parade Plans Progress

Ellwood City Expects To Have Biggest Hallowe'en Celebration In History

ELLWOOD CITY, Oct. 20.—The hallowe'en mummers march and festivities that are being sponsored by the borough and merchants division of the Chamber of Commerce hallowe'en night, Tuesday, October 31, is expected to be one of the finest ever staged here in Ellwood City.

The mummers march is expected to have five musical organizations to keep the goblins, ghosts and so forth in perfect step. Musical organizations expected to participate are the Workingman's Social club band, high school band, Wampum high school band, Legion Drum Corps and the V. F. W. Junior Drum Corps.

One hundred and twenty-five prizes will be offered to the mummers to compete and an efficient method of judging the contestants will be used this year. Immediately following the mummers march, a huge city wide street dance and entertainment will take place between Fifth and Sixth streets on Lawrence avenue.

A ten-piece popular dance band will furnish music for the dance and novelty entertianment numbers will be in store for those who do not wish to dance.

A dance platform equipped with loud speakers will be erected by the borough for the orchestra entertainment to play without being interfered wtih by the crowd. The platform will be high enough so that everyone will be able to see the orchestra all over the entire block.

With the borough council and merchants division setting aside a special night for this occasion, it is hoped that children and adults will take advantage of the night. Boys should refrain from the pre-hallowe'en destruction of property also as one night of good, clean fun should be the spirit of hallowe'en.
